Where Motley is Worn Moira E. Casey, Amanda Tucker (Lecturer in English), 2014 From Ireland's emergence in the global economy and accompanying inward migration to its increasing emigration and racial strife following the 2008 recession transnationalism has been a meaningful topic in contemporary Irish culture. Most scholars view the new multicultural Ireland as a rupture from earlier historical periods. This collection takes a different approach. Using transnationalism as a framework, the volume investigates how the multiple connections that Ireland has fostered with diverse parts of the globe influenced its literary output and production. Where Motley is Worn opens the borders of Irish literary studies which has traditionally been dominated by a nation-centered focus. The essays in this collection cover both a wide historical period covering the nineteenth through the twenty-first centuries and a broad geographical range from Asia to the Caribbean and Latin America. By examining writing that places Irish identity in dialogue with other cultural, national, or ethnic affiliations, the collection allows us to see how Irish literatures have participated in and shaped dynamic cultural flows across the globe.

A History of Irish Literature and the Environment Malcolm Sen, 2022-07-28 From Gaelic annals and medieval poetry to contemporary Irish literature, A History of Irish Literature and the Environment examines the connections between the Irish environment and Irish literary culture. Themes such as Ireland's island ecology, the ecological history of colonial-era plantation and deforestation, the Great Famine, cultural attitudes towards animals and towards the land, the postcolonial politics of food and energy generation, and the Covid-19 pandemic, this book shows how these factors determine not only a history of the Irish environment but also provide fresh perspectives from which to understand and analyze Irish literature. An international team of contributors provides a comprehensive analysis of Irish literature to show how the literary has always been deeply engaged with environmental questions in Ireland, a crucial new perspective in an age of climate crisis. A History of Irish Literature and the Environment reveals the socio-cultural, racial, and gendered aspects embedded in questions of the Irish environment.

Traveling Irishness in the Long Nineteenth Century Marguérite Corporaal, Christina Morin, 2017-07-20 Exploring the effects of traveling migration and other forms of cultural contact, particularly within Europe, this edited collection explores the act of traveling and the representation of traveling by Irish men and women from diverse walks of life in the period between Grattan's Parliament 1782 and World War I 1914. This was a period marked by an increasing physical and cultural mobility of Irish throughout Britain, Continental Europe, the Americas, and the Pacific. Travel was undertaken for a variety of reasons during the Romantic period: the Grand Tour and what is now sometimes referred to as medical tourism brought Irish artists and intellectuals to Europe, where cultural exchanges with other writers, artists, and thinkers inspired them to introduce novel ideas and cultural forms to their Irish audiences. Showing this impact of the nineteenth-century Irish across national borders and their engagement with global cultural and linguistic traditions, the volume will provide novel insights into the transcultural spheres of the arts, literature, politics, and translation in which they were active.

Poetics of the Local Shirley Lau Wong, 2023-07-01 Poetics of the Local considers contemporary Irish poetry in light of transnational forces of globalization and financialization showing how these conditions have shaped poetic innovation in Ireland from the 1960s to the present

The book is organized around different sites caught in the growing pains of a rapidly globalizing Ireland from the ghost estates or housing projects abandoned after the economic boom of the 1990s to the urban regeneration of Belfast after the Troubles to the transformation of Dublin into a hub for creative economy programs like the UNESCO City of Literature In readings of works by Thomas Kinsella Paula Meehan Seamus Heaney John Montague Ciaran Carson Leontia Flynn Alan Gillis Sin ad Morrissey and Paul Muldoon Shirley Lau Wong argues that the enduring centrality of place in Irish poetry should be seen not as a hangover of nostalgic nationalism but rather as an exploration of the material and emplaced effects of the seemingly faraway processes of global capitalism

Broken Irelands Mary M. McGlynn, 2022-10-17 While the national narrative coming out of Ireland since the 2008 economic crisis has been relentlessly sanguine fiction has offered a more nuanced perspective from both well established and emerging authors In Broken Irelands McGlynn examines Irish fiction of the post crash era addressing the proliferation of writing that downplays realistic and grammatical coherence Noting that these traits have the effect of diminishing human agency blurring questions of responsibility and emphasizing emotion over rationality McGlynn argues that they reflect and respond to social and economic conditions during the global economic crisis and its aftermath of recession austerity and precarity Rather than focusing on overt discussions of the crash and recession McGlynn explores how the dominance of an economic worldview including a pervasive climate of financialized discourse shapes the way stories are told In the writing of such authors as Anne Enright Colum McCann Mike McCormack and Lisa McInerney McGlynn unpacks the ways that formal departures from realism through grammatical asymmetries like unconventional verb tenses novel syntactic choices and reliance on sentence fragments align with a cultural moment shaped by feelings of impotence and rhetorics of personal responsibility
