Step 1: If you have a project ID, use the command `git init` to create a new repository.

NOTE The `printf()` format and the `printf()` line programming syntax operate independently but you can't program them to work together. For example, you can't use the `%s` format to print out a list of names and then use the `printf()` format to print out all the names. You have to use the list format (`%s`).
