• Turn off and unplug all components before making connections.
• If you are connecting a digital cable box, you'll need a special for-the-distribution system that's compatible with your cable box. Contact your cable provider.

Making Video Connections

Your TV includes several types of video inputs. Use the inputs that are available on your components that provide the best video performance as described in step 2.

Connector type	Notes
HDMI	High-Definition Multimedia Interface
Component video
S-VIDEO
Composite video
RF input

Additional Connections

The best video performance comes from your digital video components using either digital optical or digital serial video connections. Depending on which components are in your system, you may need to complete additional connections. For example, if you have a satellite receiver, you'll need to connect the satellite receiver. If you have an A/V receiver, you'll need to connect speakers.

Note

The receiver's program logic will prevent the use of connections that other devices already have used. Disconnect the device as it appears on the display, or the use of the connection will be blocked.

Activating CableCARD™ Service

Before you use the Digital A/V™ service, you need to turn the Digital A/V™ service on your cable provider and activate the service, as described in step 3.

Note

Turning the Digital A/V™ service on may require a separate charge to activate the service.

3 Running Initial Setup

- Press POWER to turn on the TV.
The Initial Setup screen appears.
- Press 1 to select the language display language. Then press OK.
The message "Start setup program now?" appears.
- Press 1 to select "Yes". Then press OK.

Auto Program automatically scans a list of available channels. When finished, the found channels are displayed.

To use Auto Program again at a later time

- Use the Auto Program button in the operating instructions.

To add individual digital channels

- Use the Digital Channel button in the operating instructions.

Note

Auto Program may take up to 10 minutes or more to complete. A program list is displayed while the channel list is being created.

The remote control is preset to operate Sony brand video equipment.
