

Writing the Long Essay Question for AP US History

Thesis Statements

Below are the three kinds of essays you are expected to be able to write for the AP US History exam.

Historical Causation

Patterns of Continuity and Change Over Time

Comparison

Whether the prompt asks you explicitly or not, you will be expected to adopt a historically defensible position on the prompt given. The expression of that position is called the thesis statement. The thesis statement indicates to the reader what your argument will be and the manner in which you intend to prove that your argument is valid.

We will go into more detail on the historical reasoning skills that you are required to exhibit as the year goes on, but we will start out by learning how to write a thesis statement for the different categories of essays.

Once again, here are the things that will need to be included in a thesis statement:

- 1) Your position on the prompt – This will be an evaluative statement (most, more, dramatically, etc.) rather than a statement of fact.
- 2) An indication of the manner in which you intend to prove your position. In other words, the controlling ideas or the blueprint for your argument.

You should be able to do this in two or three sentences.

We will begin by looking at examples of each kind of question:

1. Historical Causation:

Explain the major political and economic causes for the growth of big business in American society from 1870 to 1900.

Note that the question is asking for the major causes. In any causation question, there can be a disagreement about what the most significant causes are. One person might believe that the dominance of the Republican party after the defeat of the South (made up mostly of Democrats) set the stage for economic policies that were necessary for the growth of big business. Another might believe that the international development of the later Industrial Revolution led to business formations that significantly changed the role of business in the economy. Another might believe that the development of political corruption in the Gilded Age made the possibility of business expansion at such a large scale possible. Others might believe that the growth of the available work force and new consumers, particularly through new immigration, made the growth of big business possible. All are credible
