Picture the Earth!

"Hi! I'm Jackson, the historian."

"And I'm Alana, the photographer. We're taking a tour through history, and we'd like you to come along. We're going to explore our nation's early years and our home state of Florida. We'd like to share our state's shining history. Get it? Shining? Florida is the Sunshine State! Okay, we promise that our tour will be better than our jokes!"

"Along the journey, you'll read about things that are happening right now in our 'Current Events' section. In 'American Character,' we'll introduce you to people who demonstrate great character traits (qualities). This week we talk about perseverance. In the 'Trades and Technology' section, you'll discover some cool tools and technology that have affected our lives in some amazing ways. In the 'Biography' section, you'll read fascinating life stories of people who have had an important impact on our world. Inside, you'll find the section that shows off my writing talent and Alana's photography genius. Be sure to check out the back page. That's our favorite part! We've included crossword puzzles, comics and other fun things to do. There's a lot to learn, so test yourself in the 'Think and Review' section to see if you remember everything."

"Right, Jackson. This is going to be so much fun! But before we get started, we have to start with the big picture—the big picture of Earth, that is! As you might know, the Earth is mostly made up of water. About 70 percent of Earth is covered with water. There are seven large landmasses, or continents. They are Asia, Australia, Africa, Antarctica, North America, South America and Europe. The world's five major oceans are the Pacific, Atlantic, Indian, Southern and Arctic. Did you know that until recently only four oceans were recognized by most geographers?"

"I sure did, Alana. And I know that geographers are people who study the Earth and its features. They use globes and maps to represent the Earth. Globes are three-dimensional scale models of the Earth."

Maps are flat, detailed representations of places on Earth. Each half of the world is known as a hemisphere. The imaginary line that runs west to east, or horizontally, around our Earth is the equator. It divides the Earth into northern and southern hemispheres. The imaginary line that runs north to south, or vertically, around the Earth is the prime meridian. It divides the Earth into western and eastern hemispheres."

"Great! Now that we know a little more about our world, let's get on with the tour!"

In America rats can't vote, so "you the people" govern (run) the country. Someday you will be in charge of this country, and you'll choose leaders and representatives by voting. Then you can tell the representatives you help elect how you think the country should be run. In fact, Studies Weekly kids are so smart, that many of you will someday be mayors, senators, governors—maybe even the president!

For now you have two jobs: Learn about the country and how it works, and earn points for me so I can get that great stuff I told you about. It's easy. Just scan or click and you're on your way!
