The Ecology of Childhood Barbara Bennett Woodhouse, 2020-01-21 2021 Outstanding Academic Title Choice Magazine How globalization is undermining sustainable social environments for children This book uses the ecological model of child development together with ethnographic and comparative studies of two small villages in Italy and the United States as its framework for examining the well being of children in the aftermath of the Great Recession Global forces far from being distant and abstract are revealed as wreaking havoc in children s environments even in economically advanced countries Falling birth rates deteriorating labor conditions fraying safety nets rising rates of child poverty and a surge in racism and populism in Europe and the United States are explored in the petri dish of the village Globalism s discontents unrestrained capitalism and technological change rising inequality mass migration and the

juggernaut of climate change are rapidly destabilizing and degrading the social and physical environments necessary to our collective survival and well being This crisis demands a radical restructuring of our macrosystemic value systems Woodhouse proposes an ecogenerist theory that asks whether our policies and politics foster environments in which children and families can flourish It proposes as a benchmark the family supportive human rights principles of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child The book closes by highlighting ways in which individuals can engage at the local and regional levels in creating more just and sustainable worlds that are truly fit for children

The Politics of Civic Education Eleni M. Mantas-Kourounis, 2024-06-10 This book chronicles the progression of civic education advocacy since the early 2000s It identifies the main actors that called for civic education reform describes their motivations and policy platforms and documents the path taken to capture state policy agendas It argues that No Child Left Behind incentivized civic education advocates to mobilize a call to action to restore emphasis on civics that materialized into national policy reform proposals that successfully captured the agendas of state legislatures and bureaucracies This book analyzes the implementation and sustainability of these civic education policy reforms by undertaking a comparative case study analysis of school districts in Utah and Connecticut Through the voices of teachers and district administrators the book tells the story of what happened when these state policy reforms inspired by national initiatives hit the local level where the rubber meets the road As ideological debates about schools and democracy unfold across the country as civic education advocates and proposals proliferate this book treats civic education not as panacea but as a concrete policy area to be analyzed and understood It contextualizes the current debate and offers a critical assessment of the most recent comprehensive state level civic education policy reform It argues that while questions linger about what type of civic inspired educational interventions remains most effective for whom where and why the implementation of such interventions are profoundly impacted by local actors and local politics and that future initiatives should take this dimension into consideration
