Dixon, 2019-10-16 The book has a host of articles written from observations of everyday life book and movie reviews and poems Exley Brock Clarke, 2011-09-01 For young Miller Le Ray life has become a search A search for his dad who may or may not have joined the army and gone to Iraq A search for a notorious and unfortunately deceased writer Frederick Exley author of the fictional memoir A Fan's Notes who may hold the key to bringing Miller's father back But most of all this is a search for truth As Miller says Sometimes you have to tell the truth about some of the stuff you've done so that people will believe you when you tell them the truth about other stuff you haven't done In Exley as in his previous bestselling novel An Arsonist's Guide to Writers Homes in New England Brock Clarke takes his reader into a world that is both familiar and disorienting thought provoking and thoroughly entertaining Told by Miller and Dr Pahnee both unreliable narrators it becomes an exploration of the difference between what we believe to be real and what is in fact real

The Author's Effects Nicola J. Watson, 2020-01-09 The Author's Effects On the Writer's House Museum is the first book to describe how the writer's house museum came into being as a widespread cultural phenomenon across Britain Europe and North America Exploring the ways that authorship has been mythologised through the conventions of the writer's house museum The Author's Effects anatomises the how and why of the emergence establishment and endurance of popular notions of authorship in relation to creativity It traces how and why the writer's bodily remains possessions and spaces came to be treasured in the late eighteenth and nineteenth centuries as a prelude to the appearance of formal writer's house museums It ransacks more than 100 museums and archives to tell the stories of celebrated and paradigmatic relics Burns skull Keats hair Petrarch's cat Poe's raven Brontë's bonnet Dickinson's dress Shakespeare's chair Austen's desk Woolf's spectacles Hawthorne's window Freud's mirror Johnson's coffee pot and Bulgakov's stove amongst many others. It investigates houses within which nineteenth century writers mythologised themselves and their work: Thoreau's cabin and Dumas' tower, Scott's Abbotsford and Irving's Sunnyside. And it tracks literary tourists of the past to such long celebrated literary homes as Petrarch's Arqu, Rousseau's Ile St Pierre and Shakespeare's Stratford to find out what they thought and felt and did, discovering deep continuities with the redevelopment of Shakespeare's New Place for 2016.

A Skeptic's Guide to Writers' Houses Anne Trubek, 2011-07-11 There are many ways to show our devotion to an author besides reading his or her works. Graves make for popular pilgrimage sites but far more popular are writers' house museums. What is it we hope to accomplish by trekking to the home of a dead author? We may go in search of the point of inspiration, eager to stand on the very spot where our favorite literary characters first came to life and find ourselves instead in the house where the author himself was conceived or where she drew her last breath. Perhaps it is a place through which our writer passed only briefly or maybe it really was a longtime home now thoroughly remade as a decorator's show house. In A Skeptic's Guide to Writers' Houses Anne Trubek takes a vexed, often funny and always thoughtful tour of a goodly number of house museums across the nation. In Key West she visits the shamelessly ersatz shrine to a hard living Ernest Hemingway while meditating on his lost Cuban farm and the sterile Idaho house in which he committed suicide. In Hannibal, Missouri she walks the fuzzy line between fact and fiction as she visits the home of the young Samuel Clemens and the purported haunts of Tom Sawyer, Becky Thatcher and Injun Joe. She hits literary pay dirt in Concord, Massachusetts, the nineteenth century mecca that gave home to Hawthorne, Emerson and Thoreau and yet could not accommodate a surprisingly complex Louisa May Alcott. She takes us along the trail of residences that Edgar Allan Poe left behind in the wake of his many failures and to the burned out shell of a California house with which Jack London staked his claim on posterity. In Dayton, Ohio, a charismatic guide brings Paul Laurence Dunbar to compelling life for those few visitors willing to listen. In Cleveland, Trubek finds a moving remembrance of Charles Chesnut in a house that no longer stands. Why is it that we visit writers' houses? Although admittedly skeptical about the stories these buildings tell us about their former inhabitants, Anne Trubek carries us along as she falls at least a little bit in love with each stop on her itinerary and finds in each some truth about literature, history and contemporary America.

Cincinnati Magazine, 2007-11 Cincinnati Magazine taps into the DNA of the city, exploring shopping, dining, living and culture and giving readers a ringside seat on the issues shaping the region.

Memoir Ben Yagoda, 2009-11-12 From a critically acclaimed cultural and literary critic, a definitive history and analysis of the memoir. From Saint Augustine's Confessions to Augusten Burroughs's Running with Scissors, from Julius Caesar to Ulysses Grant, from Mark Twain to David Sedaris, the art of memoir has had a fascinating life and deserves its own biography. Cultural and literary critic Ben Yagoda traces the memoir from its birth in early Christian writings and Roman generals' journals all the way up to the banner year of 2007, which saw memoirs from and about dogs, rock stars, bad dads, good dads, alternadads, waitresses, George Foreman, Iranian women and a slew of other illustrious persons and animals. In a time when memoir seems ubiquitous and is still highly controversial Yagoda tackles the autobiography and memoir in all its forms and iterations He discusses the fraudulent memoir and provides many examples from the past and addresses the ramifications and consequences of these books Spanning decades and nations styles and subjects he analyzes the hallmark memoirs of the Western tradition Rousseau Ben Franklin Henry Adams Gertrude Stein Edward Gibbon among others Yagoda also describes historical trends such as Native American captive memoirs slave narratives courtier dramas where one had to pay to NOT be included in a courtesan's memoir Throughout the idea of memory and truth how we remember and how well we remember lives is intimately explored Yagoda's elegant examination of memoir is at once a history of literature and taste and an absorbing glimpse into what humans find interesting one another
