A Theology of Failure Marika Rose,2019-05-07 Everyone agrees that theology has failed but the question of how to understand and respond to this failure is complex and contested Against both the radical orthodox attempt to return to a time before the theology s failure and the deconstructive theological attempt to open theology up to the hope of a future beyond failure Rose proposes an account of Christian identity as constituted by not despite failure Understanding failure as central to theology opens up new possibilities for confronting Christianity s violent and kyriarchal history and abandoning the attempt to discover a pure Christ outside of the grotesque materiality of the church The Christian mystical tradition begins with Dionysius the Areopagite s uncomfortable but productive conjunction of Christian theology and Neoplatonism The tensions generated by this are central to Dionysius s legacy visible not only in subsequent theological thought but also in much twentieth century continental philosophy as it seeks to disentangle itself from its Christian ancestry A Theology of Failure shows how the work of Slavoj i ek represents an attempt to repeat the original move of Christian mystical theology bringing together the themes of language desire and transcendence not with Neoplatonism but with a materialist account of the world Tracing these themes through the work of Dionysius and Derrida and through contemporary debates about the gift violence and revolution this book offers a critical theological engagement with i ek s account of social and political transformation showing how i ek s work makes possible a materialist reading of apophatic theology and Christian identity

Failure Analysis John A. Fellows, 1969 Rubber Product Failure Roger P. Brown, 2002 Rubber components are used in many demanding applications from tyres and seals to gloves and medical devices and failure can be catastrophic This review of Rubber Product Failure outlines and illustrates the common causes of failure while addressing ways of avoiding it There has been increasing pressure to improve performance so that rubbers can be used at higher temperatures and in harsher environments For example the under the bonnet temperature has increased in some vehicles and new medical devices require longer lifetimes in potentially degrading biological fluids The expectations of tyre performance in particular are increasing and retreads have been in the spotlight for failures The definition of failure depends on the application For example a racing car engine seal that lasts for one race may be acceptable but in a normal car a life span of 10 years is more reasonable If appearance is critical as in surface coatings and paints then discolouration is failure whilst in seals leakage is not acceptable Each rubber product must be fit for the use specified by the consumer Failure analysis is critical to product improvement the cause of the problem can be much harder to find It can range from a design fault to poor material selection to processing problems to manufacturing errors such as poor dimensional tolerances to poor installation product abuse and unexpected service conditions The rubber technologist must become a detective gathering evidence understanding the material type and using deductive reasoning Testing and analysis of failed materials and components add to the information available for failure analysis For example stored aged tyres appeared superficially to be alright for use but on drum testing small cracks grew more quickly than in new tyres leading to rapid failure in service Quality control procedures such as product inspection testing and material quality checks can help to reach 100 percent reliability In critical applications such as electricians gloves for high voltage working gloves are inspected before each use while engine seals may be routinely replaced before the expected lifetime to avoid problems in the literature is not high However several reviews have been written on specific products and references can be found at the end of this review Around 400 abstracts from papers in the Polymer Library are included with an index Subjects covered include tyre wear and failure seals engine components rubber bonding failure rubber failure due to chloramine in water tank treads gloves and condoms medical devices and EPDM roofing membranes
