

A detailed oil painting of a grand, white, two-story house with classical architectural features. The house has a prominent balcony with a white balustrade on the upper floor. The ground floor features a large, arched doorway with a blue door and a semi-circular window above it. To the left of the entrance is a tall, dark green conical shrub. A black wrought-iron gate stands in the foreground, partially open, leading to a path that winds through a lush garden. The garden is filled with various trees and plants, including a large tree with dense green foliage on the right. The overall scene is bathed in warm, golden light, suggesting a late afternoon or early morning setting. The painting style is realistic with visible brushstrokes and a rich color palette.

Georgia Chambers has spent her life sifting through other people's pasts while trying to forget her own. But then her work as an expert on fine china, especially Limoges, requires her to return to the one place she swore she'd never revisit. It has been ten years since Georgia left her family home on the coast of Florida, and nothing much has changed except that there are fewer oysters and more tourists. She finds solace in seeing her grandfather still toiling away in the apiary where she spent much of her childhood, but encountering her estranged mother and sister leaves her rattled. Seeing them after all this time makes Georgia realize that something has been missing, and unless she finds a way to heal these rifts, she will forever be living vicariously through other people's remnants. To embrace her own life mistakes and all she will have to find the courage to confront the ghosts of her past and the secrets she was forced to keep.
