

Applications of Trigonometry (pp. 1 of 3)

Trigonometric ratios have many real world applications from surveying to navigation where calculation of distances and angles might be required.

Trigonometric ratios can be applied in any situation involving a right triangle where only one acute angle and one side are known.

- Draw a diagram of the right triangle.
- Determine which trig ratio will work best with the given data.
- Solve the problem.

Examples

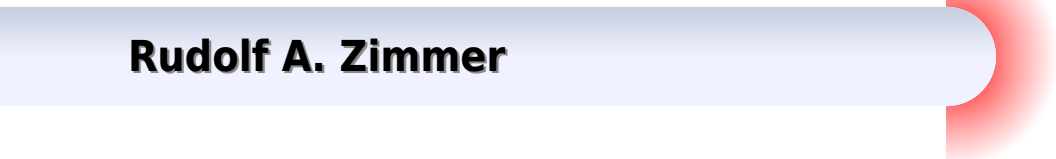

1. A 25-foot ladder is propped against a storeroom. The angle the ladder forms with the ground is 50° . How far up the storeroom does the ladder reach?

2. A pine tree creates a shadow of 55 feet when the sun is at an angle of elevation of 42° . How tall is the pine tree?

3. The angle of depression from the top of a 121-foot lighthouse to a ship coming in to harbor is 16° . To the nearest foot, how far out is the ship from the lighthouse?
