The Great Sea David Abulafia, 2014-04-29 For over three thousand years the Mediterranean Sea has been one of the great centres of civilization David Abulafia s The Great Sea is the first complete history of the Mediterranean from the erection of temples on Malta around 3500 BC to modern tourism Ranging across time and the whole extraordinary space of the Mediterranean from Gibraltar to Jaffa Genoa to Tunis and bringing to life pilgrims pirates sultans and naval commanders this is the story of the sea that has shaped much of world history

The Boundless Sea David Abulafia, 2019-09-16 From the beginning of history to the present a sweep of the world s oceans and seas and how they have shaped the course of civilization From the author of the acclaimed The Great Sea Magnificent radiates scholarship and a sense of wonder and fun Simon Sebag Montefiore Book of the Year The Economist David Abulafia s new book guides readers along the world's greatest bodies of water to reveal their primary role in human history. The main protagonists are the three major oceans: the Atlantic, the Pacific, and the Indian, which together comprise the majority of the earth's water and cover over half of its surface. Over time, as passage through them gradually extended and expanded, linking first islands and then continents, maritime networks developed, evolving from local exploration to lines of regional communication and commerce, and eventually to major arteries. These waterways carried goods, plants, livestock, and of course people, free and enslaved, across vast expanses, transforming and ultimately linking irrevocably the economies and cultures of Africa, Europe, Asia, and the Americas. Far more than merely another history of exploration, The Boundless Sea shows how maritime networks gradually formed a continuum of interaction and interconnection. Working chronologically, Abulafia moves from the earliest forays of peoples taking hand-hewn canoes into uncharted waters to the routes taken daily by supertankers in the thousands. History on the grandest scale and scope, written with passion and precision, this is a project few could have undertaken. Abulafia, whom The Atlantic calls superb writer with a gift for lucid compression and an eye for the telling detail, proves again why he ranks as one of the world's greatest storytellers.

The Aegean Sea Environment Christos L. Anagnostou, Andrey G. Kostianoy, Ilias D. Mariolakos, Panayotis Panayotidis, Marina Soilemezidou, Grigoris Tsaltas, 2025-11-30. This is the third of three books that together provide an integrated picture of the Aegean Sea, presenting the natural components of the system. Book I and Book II, as well as the human presence in the extended area. Book III, The Aegean Sea, also called Aegean Archipelagos, is an open, complex, and diverse marine system with different compartments and interactions. Divided into 6 parts, this book begins with a historical perspective of the region as an important cradle of civilization connecting the eastern Mediterranean Sea to the Black Sea, followed by an account of the natural resources, natural hazards, and economic activities in the region, such as the potential of marine renewable energy, capture fisheries, and aquaculture. The subsequent parts of the book explore the balance between tourism, sustainable development, and ecology in the Aegean Sea. Expert contributors review how human activities, e.g., tourism, fishing, and energy production, are threatening the marine systems and the impact they have on different ecosystems and the climate. Particular attention is given to the current state of pollution, including topics such as the reconstruction, analysis of radionuclides, and metals for contamination assessment, and coastal variability, pollution from hydrocarbons, and other organic contaminants, as well as the pressing issue of marine litter, plastics, and microplastics in the Aegean Archipelago. The book III concludes with an overview of the national and international plans for the conservation of the Aegean Sea system and presents integrated guidelines and an outlook on the future of the region. Given the breadth and depth of its coverage, the book offers an invaluable source of information for researchers, students, and environmental managers alike.

Medieval Histories 2012 3:2 , The Mediterranean in History David Abulafia, 2003. Contained in this history of the Great Sea are the stories of the birth of Western Civilization, the clash of warring faiths, and the rivalries of empires. David Abulafia leads a team of eight distinguished historians in an exploration of the great facts themes and epochs of this region's history the physical setting the rivalry between Carthaginians Greeks and Etruscans for control of the sea routes unification under Rome and the subsequent break up into Western Christendom Byzantium and Islam the Crusades commerce in medieval times the Ottoman resurgence the rivalry of European powers from the eighteenth to the twentieth centuries and the globalization of the region in the last century The book departs from the traditional view of Mediterranean history which placed emphasis on the overwhelming influences of physical geography on the molding of the region's civilizations Instead this new interpretation regards that physical context as a staging ground for decisive action and at center stage are human catalysts at all levels of society whether great kings and emperors the sailors of medieval Amalfi or the Sephardic Jews who were expelled from Spain in 1492 The authors do more than simply catalogue the societies that developed in the region but also describe how these groups interacted with one another across the sea enjoying commercial and political ties as well as sharing ideas and religious beliefs This richly illustrated book offers contemporary historical writing at its best and is sure to engage specialists students and general readers alike

The Millennium Maritime Trade Revolution, 700-1700 Nick Collins, 2025-08-05 This book explains how and why and how destructive continental influences destroyed Asia's maritime supremacy Following the series first book How Maritime Trade and the Indian Subcontinent Shaped the World this book continues to demonstrate how maritime trade has been the key driver of the world's wealth creation economic and intellectual progress The story begins where the first book ends when following Roman Empire collapse 7th century European maritime trade almost ceased creating population collapse and poverty the Dark Ages In 700 stuttering hesitant recovery was evident with new ports but Viking and Muslim maritime raiding neutered recovery until the 11th century In Asia by contrast short and long haul trade thrived and accelerated from east Africa and the Persian Gulf all the way to China encouraging Southeast Asian state formation The book tells the story of slowly rising gradually accelerating European maritime trade which until the 15th century was overshadowed by far more voluminous Asian trade in much larger more complex ships traded by more sophisticated commercial entities contributing to innovative tolerant wealth creating maritime societies In Europe Mediterranean maritime trade made most progress from about 1000 to 1450 But by 1700 north Europeans dominated Atlantic American and Mediterranean trade and were penetrating sophisticated Asian maritime networks a complete reversal This book explains how and why and how destructive continental influences destroyed Asia's maritime supremacy As in the first book Nick Collins finds similar patterns maritime inquisitiveness invention problem solving and toleration and continental political suppression of those maritime traits most dramatically in China but destructively everywhere allowing the millennium maritime trade revolution

The Power of the Dispersed Cornel Zwierlein, 2021-12-20 Early modern travelers often did not form part of classic diaspora communities they frequently never really settled perhaps remaining abroad for some time in one place then traveling further not blown by the wind but by changing and complex conditions that often turned out to make them unwelcome anywhere The dispersed developed strategies of survival by keeping their distance from old and new temporary homes as well as by using information from and manipulating foreign representations of their former countries This volume assembles case studies from the Mediterranean context the Americas and Japan They explore what kind of power s and agency dispersed people had counterintuitively through the connections they maintained with their former homes and through those they established abroad Contributors Eduardo Angione Iordan Avramov Marloes Cornelissen David Do Pa o Jos Luis Eg o Maria Tsampika Lampitsi Paula Manstetten Simon Mills David Nelson Adolfo Polo y La Borda Ana M Rodr guez Rodr guez Cesare Santus Stefano Saracino and Cornel Zwierlein The Sea in the Literary Imagination Ekaterina V.
