active in landscape architecture in Scandinavia throughout the twentieth century yet little is known about their contribution This volume therefore asks where are the women in Scandinavian landscape architecture It thus presents new knowledge about women s contributions to the shaping of modern cities and landscapes in the Scandinavian welfare states With chapters by some of the most respected architectural and landscape architectural historians as well as up and coming scholars and practice based artistic researchers the book make three major contributions First it asks the previously neglected question of women s contributions to twntieth century landscape architecture in Denmark Sweden and Norway Second it does so from a transnational perspective bringing together researchers from Scandinavia and Finland Third it documents how collaborative formats for knowledge creation can generate new insights and fruitful links between researchers and research materials The book brings to light new knowledge and new forms of architectural historical work on the contributions of many women landscape architects to designed open spaces Rural Second Homes in Europe

Nick Gallent,Mark Tewdwr-Jones,2020-07-26 This title was first published in 2000 Improved communication links between urban and rural areas and an increase in property prices in urban regions have made commuting an attractive option for European town and city dwellers eager to escape urban living This has lead to a proliferation of second homes in certain remote or deep rural areas and this trend is compounding problems that are already affecting the indigenous populations in these areas such as socio economic decline agricultural depression a lack of services and unaffordable house prices Consequently many politicians in European Member States are calling for the introduction of housing and planning laws to control the proliferation of second home ownership This book addresses the origins of second home growth the nature of ownership and demand the economic costs and benefits and the environmental and social impacts of second homes It also considers policy and practical responses at European UK and local levels The book will be invaluable reading for students and policy analysts in the fields of rural geography planning politics housing studies and cultural studies Spatial

Dynamics in the Experience Economy Anne Lorentzen,Karin Topsø Larsen,Lise Schrøder,2015-05-22 This book explores the dynamics of place location and territories from the perspective of an experience based economy It offers a valuable contribution to this new approach and the planning and management challenges it faces This book emphasises three key avenues to understanding the experience economy First the book reconsiders innovation processes and the relationship between the consumption and production of experience value Second it considers emerging forms of governance related to experience based development in businesses and cities Third it examines the role of place as a value resource and outcome of experiential innovation and planning This book will be of interested to researchers concerned with urban and regional development

Tourist Experiences Chris Ryan,Xiaoyu (Nancy) Zhang,2024-03-12 This book explores the application of psychological theories to tourist behaviour and experiences It traces the evolution of those theories and how they have changed in response to broader social and economic changes Among those changes have been the development of tourism which reflects those social changes and contributes to them In doing so tourism theories also contribute to and gain insights from emergent psychological theories including those derived from the neurosciences The book provides both undergraduate and postgraduate students with an understanding of core psychological perspectives derived from both humanistic and empirical psychology and their application to tourist behaviours and experiences

Second Home Tourism in Europe Zoran Roca,2016-04-01 Bringing together a wide range of studies from twelve European countries this book offers a state of the art overview of the driving forces behind spatial diversity and social complexity inherent in second home expansion in all parts of the continent from Scandinavia to the Mediterranean and from the British Isles to Russia in the context of contemporary mobility patterns largely induced by tourism As befits the overall conception of the book as a compendium of current second home research planning and policy issues the book endorses the following multidisciplinary approaches to the second home phenomenon as an expression of the leisure class mobility and recreation based lifestyles as well as a constitutive element of post productivist land use patterns and landscape change and socio economic and territorial development planning and policy related perspectives on social change and spatial re organization provoked by the expansion of second home tourism in times of prosperity and crisis This book shows that second home tourism has become such an important sector of the economy that it is no longer possible to let it develop freely it is the source of new forms of social deprivation it generates residential economies that are particularly sensitive to the economic cycle it often impairs beautiful landscapes and increases human pressure on natural environments As a result it is one of the major physical planning stakes of touristic areas From the concluding essay by Paul Claval Universit de Paris I Sorbonne Paris France

Holiday Home Run Priscilla Oliveras,2020-10-27 HOLIDAY HOME RUN Event planner Julia Louisa Fernandez dreams of a life in Chicago But her family in Puerto Rico expects her to take over the catering business Former pro baseball player Ben Thomas knows what that s like and when they meet he might be the one to inspire a winning strategy just in time for the holidays Previously published in A Season to Celebrate

Wins, Losses, and Empty Seats David George Surdam,2021-08-06 Organized baseball has survived its share of difficult times and never was the state of the game more imperiled than during the Great Depression Or was it Remarkably during the economic upheavals of the Depression none of the sixteen Major League Baseball teams folded or moved In this economist s look at the sport as a business between 1929 and 1941 David George Surdam argues that although it was a very tough decade for baseball the downturn didn t happen immediately The 1930 season after the stock market crash had record attendance But by 1931 attendance began to fall rapidly plummeting 40 percent by 1933 To adjust teams reduced expenses by cutting coaches and hiring player managers While even the best players such as Babe Ruth were forced to take pay cuts most players continued to earn the same pay in terms of purchasing power Baseball remained a great way to make a living Revenue sharing helped the teams in small markets but not necessarily at the expense of big city teams Off the field owners devised innovative solutions to keep the game afloat including the development of the Minor League farm system night baseball and the first radio broadcasts to diversify teams income sources Using research from primary documents Surdam analyzes how the economic structure and operations side of Major League Baseball during the Depression took a beating but managed to endure albeit changed by the societal forces of its time Parliamentary Debates. Legislative Council and House of Representatives New Zealand. Parliament,1986

Coastal Architectures and Politics of Tourism Sibel Bozdoğan,Panayiota Pyla,Petros Phokaides,2022-07-29 This volume offers a critical and complicated picture of how leisure tourism connected the world after the World War II transforming coastal lands traditional societies and national economies in new ways The 21 chapters in this book analyze selected case studies of architectures and landscapes around the world contextualizing them within economic geographies of national development the geopolitics of the Cold War the legacies of colonialism and the international dynamics of decolonization Postwar leisure tourism evokes a rich array of architectural spaces and altered coastal landscapes which is explored in this collection through discussions of tourism developments in the Mediterranean littoral such as Greece Turkey and southern France as well as compelling analyses of Soviet bloc seaside resorts along the Black Sea and Baltic coasts and in beachscapes and tourism architectures of western and eastern hemispheres from Southern California to Sri Lanka South Korea and Egypt This collection makes a compelling argument that leiscapes far from being supra ideological and apolitical spatial expressions of modernization development and progress have often concealed histories of conflict violence social inequalities and environmental degradation It will be of interest to architectural and urban historians architects and planners as well as urban geographers economic and environmental historians
