Novel Sounds Florence Dore, 2018-06-12 The 1950s witnessed both the birth of both rock and roll and the creation of Southern literature as we know it Around the time that Chuck Berry and Elvis Presley put their electric spin on Southern vernacular ballads a canonical group of white American authors native to rock's birthplace began to write fiction about the electrification of those ballads translating into literary form key cultural changes that gave rise to the infectious music coming out of their region In Novel Sounds Florence Dore tells the story of how these forms of expression became intertwined and shows how Southern writers turned to rock music and its technologies tape radio vinyl to develop the rock novel Dore considers the work of Southern writers like William Faulkner Flannery O'Connor and William Styron alongside the music of Bessie Smith Lead Belly and Bob Dylan to uncover deep historical links between rock and Southern literature Along with rock pioneers Southern authors drew from blues country jazz and other forms to create a new brand of realism that redefined the Southern vernacular as global electric and notably white Resurrecting this Southern literary tradition at the birth of rock Dore clarifies the surprising but unmistakable influence of rock and roll on the American novel Along the way she explains how literature came to resemble rock and roll an anti institutional art form if there ever was one at the very moment academics claimed literature for the institution
