The Iconnected Parent:

The IConnected Parent Barbara K. Hofer, Abigail Sullivan Moore, 2011-06-14 Draws on the author's ground breaking studies in parent child communication to analyze how today's electronic devices may be reinforcing college age children's dependency on their parents sharing practical advice on navigating a healthy transition toward emancipation The IConnected Parent Barbara K. Hofer, 2010 The Parent App Lynn Schofield Clark, 2013 New technologies offer new ways for families to connect access ideas and entertainment and manage the risks faced by children and teens but they also bring more responsibilities choices and challenges Clark argues that families experience digital and mobile technologies in their children's lives especially during the preteen and teen years quite differently depending on whether they are middle class or less advantaged Based on over ten years of interviews hundreds of parents and children The Parent App explores these differences and provides the kind of guidance backed by thorough research that parents today desperately need

Contemporary Pioneers in Teaching and Learning Héfer Bembenutty, 2015-09-08 This volume traces the socialization professional development and career paths of contemporary pioneers in education and psychology through interviews Scholars share how their childhood and mentors influenced their theoretical paths and research Parenting in a Digital World Catherine Page Jeffery, 2025-03-17 This book focuses on the challenges of parenting in the digital age providing a counter narrative to and critique of risk and cyber safety narratives as well as some suggestions for a way forward Drawing on qualitative research with Australian families this book explores the knowledges practices anxieties and lived experiences of families themselves It demonstrates that the realities of family life in the digital age are more complex than the headlines and cyber safety advice would have us believe as parents grapple with balancing their own anxieties and social expectations about what it means to be a good parent with the practices desires and rights of their child It addresses key questions including How much attention should we pay to media headlines about the dangers of contemporary media What is actually worrying Australian parents and how do they address these concerns Why do young people love media so much How capable are young people of actually managing online risk What is the right way to parent in the digital age to ensure young people's safety and wellbeing while minimising family conflict Aimed at media studies scholars and students as well as parents and policy makers seeking a more comprehensive understanding of the broader academic research surrounding young people media and parenting this book argues that parent and child knowledges practices and experiences must be better accounted for within the online safety ecosystem as well as in policy development and that families need encouragement and guidance to help them adopt more democratic approaches to parenting in the digital age Contested Issues in Student Affairs Peter M. Magolda, Marcia B. Baxter Magolda, 2023-07-03 What is your level of understanding of the many moral ideological and political issues that student affairs educators regularly encounter What is your personal responsibility to addressing these issues What are the rationales behind your decisions What are the theoretical perspectives you might choose and why How do your responses compare with those of colleagues

Contested Issues in Student Affairs augments traditional introductory handbooks that focus on functional areas e.g. residence life, career services, and organizational issues. It fills a void by addressing the social, educational, and moral concepts and concerns of student affairs work that transcend content areas and administrative units such as the tensions between theory and practice, academic affairs, and student affairs risk taking and failure, and such as issues of race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, and spirituality. It places learning and social justice at the epicenter of student affairs practice. The book addresses these issues by asking 24 critical and contentious questions that go to the heart of contemporary educational practice. Intended equally for future student affairs educators in graduate preparation programs and as reading for professional development workshops, it is designed to stimulate reflection and prompt readers to clarify their own thinking and practice as they confront the complexities of higher education. Student affairs faculty, administrators, and graduate students here situate these 24 questions historically in the professional literature, present background information and context, define key terms, summarize the diverse ideological and theoretical responses to the questions, make explicit their own perspectives and responses, discuss their political implications, and set them in the context of the changing nature of student affairs work. Each chapter is followed by a response that offers additional perspectives and complications, reminding readers of the ambiguity and complexity of many situations. Each chapter concludes with a brief annotated bibliography of seminal works that offer additional information on the topic, as well as with a URL to a moderated blog site that encourages further conversation on each topic and allows readers to teach and learn from each other and interact with colleagues beyond their immediate campus. The website invites readers to post blogs, respond to each other, and upload relevant resources. The book aims to serve as a conversation starter to engage professionals in ongoing dialogue about these complex and enduring challenges.

Short Contents

The 24 questions are organized into four units:

- I The Philosophical Foundations of Student Affairs in Higher Education explores the implications and complications of student affairs educators placing learning at the epicenter of their professional work.
- II The Challenges of Promoting Learning and Development explores the challenges associated with learning-centered practice.
- III Achieving Inclusive and Equitable Learning Environments addresses crafting learning environments that include students whose needs are often labeled special or students and/or student subcultures that are often marginalized and encouraged to adapt to normalizing expectations.
- IV Organizing Student Affairs Practice for Learning and Social Justice addresses the organizational and professional implications of placing learning and social justice at the epicenter of student affairs practice.

Brave Parenting Krissy Pozatek,2014-04-01 How do we build resilient children who can handle life s challenges As parents today we often feel that our role is to protect our children from the world to cushion them when they fall to lift them over obstacles and to remove sharp rocks from their path But controlling a child s entire environment and keeping all pain at bay isn t feasible we can t prepare the world for our children so instead we should focus on preparing our children for the world The solution is not removing impediments from our children s lives writes Krissy Pozatek it is compassionately encouraging them to be brave We need to show our kids how to navigate their own terrain If our kids face small hurdles small pains at a young age and learn to overcome these obstacles they will be much better equipped to face larger trouble later in life Early lessons in problem solving teach self confidence and self reliance and show us that our kids are tougher than we think Krissy draws her lessons from her experience guiding children in wilderness therapy and from her Buddhist practice showing us that all life is as unpredictable as mountain weather that impermanence is the only constant and that the most loving act a parent can do is fearlessly ready their child to face the wilderness For parents of children of all ages
