  - Recognize temporary differences for liabilities and deferred tax assets (1.A.2.c).
  - Demonstrate an understanding of impairment for deferred tax assets (1.A.2.c).

Deferred income tax refers to the difference between income reported under GAAP or IFRS that is different from the taxable income. It arises from temporary differences. As each temporary difference arises, it creates temporary tax consequences, depending on whether the difference is a liability or an asset. This section will define and distinguish these differences.

1. Not income under U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) or International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) can differ from taxable income reported to government taxing authorities such as the United States Internal Revenue Service (IRS).
2. Differences are defined as either temporary or permanent depending on the reasons why the GAAP or IFRS income differs from taxable income.
  - a. Examples of non-deductible expenses:
    - 1. Interest received from investments in bonds issued by state and municipal governments
