

A narrow, sunlit alleyway in a historic town. The walls are made of aged, textured plaster in shades of yellow and red. A wooden door is visible on the left, and a small window is on the right. The ground is paved with light-colored stones. The scene is captured from a low angle, looking down the alley.

The Malhoa Connection Estelle Ryan,2021-04-29 A decades old crime A torment not forgiven Ice cold revenge When a prolific international criminal takes one of Doctor Genevieve Lenard s friends hostage in his own flat she is hard pushed to believe his motivation Calling on her expertise as a nonverbal communications specialist she sees the genuine fear and desperation behind this thief s blustering demand to help him stop the Collector For almost a year the Collector has evaded Genevieve and her team leaving behind a trail of stolen artworks burned down museums and blown up galleries And innocent victims Grudgingly cooperating with this thief and his associates Genevieve and her team track the Collector to the cobbled alleyways of Lisbon Portugal where they have only one chance to stop this merciless killer from exacting revenge that took decades to plan an action that would have an irreversible political and economic impact on a global scale The Tangier Connection Ken Van Neijenhoff,2014-12-01 The Tangier Connection describes the experiences of a yachtsman who in the eighties got involved in smuggling hashish the number one export product of Morocco During that period he made his acquaintance of a traditional native girl Samira and fell in love with her Their relationship was not accepted by Moroccan standards and as a result he encountered serious problems Drawing on information from several sources Ken van Neijenhoff 1950 was inspired to write The Tangier Connection while he was sailing around the Mediterranean on a small yacht
