A Translational Turn Marta E. Sánchez, 2019-05-17 No contemporary development underscores the transnational linkage between the United States and Spanish language America today more than the wave of immigration from Spanish language countries during the 1980s and 1990s This development among others has made clear what has always been true that the United States is part of Spanish language America Translation and oral communication from Spanish to English have been constant phenomena since before the annexation of the Mexican Southwest in 1848 The expanding number of counter national translations from English to Spanish of Latinx fictional narratives by mainstream presses between the 1990s and 2010 is an indication of significant change in the relationship A Translational Turn explores both the historical reality of Spanish to English translation and the new counter national English to Spanish translation of Latinx narratives More than theorizing about translation this book underscores long standing contact such as code mixing and bi multilingualism between the two languages in U S language and culture Although some political groups in this country persist in seeing and representing this country as having a single national tongue and community the linguistic ecology of both major cities and the suburban periphery here and in the global world is bilingualism and multilingualism

Pathetic Literature Eileen Myles, 2022-11-15 An utterly unique collection composed by the award winning poet and writer a global anthology of pieces from lesser known classics by luminaries like Franz Kafka Samuel R Delany and Gwendolyn Brooks to up and coming writers that examine pathos and feeling giving a well timed rehab to the word pathetic Literature is pathetic So claims Eileen Myles in their provocative and robust introduction to Pathetic Literature a breathtaking mishmash of pieces ranging from poems to theater scripts to prose to anything in between all exploring the so called pathetic or awkwardly felt moments and revelations around which lives are both built and undone Myles first reclaimed the word for a seminar they taught at the University of California San Diego in the early 2000s rescuing it from the derision into which it had slipped and restoring its original meaning of inspiring emotion or feeling from the Ancient Greek rhetorical method pathos Their identification of pathetic as ripe for reinvention forms the need for this anthology which includes a hearty 106 contributors encompassing canonical global stars like Robert Walser Jorge Luis Borges Rumi and Gwendolyn Brooks literary libertines like Dodie Bellamy Samuel R Delany and Bob Flanagan as well as extraordinary writers on the rise including Nicole Wallace Precious Okoyomon and Will Farris Wrenching and discomfiting prose by Karla Cornejo Villavicencio Jack Halberstam and Porochista Khakpour rubs shoulders with poems by Natalie Diaz Victoria Chang Lucille Clifton and Ariana Reines and butts up against fiction from Chester Himes Djuna Barnes Chris Kraus and Qiu Miaojin among so many others including Myles's own opening salvo of their 1992 presidential campaign The result is a completely anomalous and uplifting anthology that encourages a fresh political discourse on literature as well as supplying an essential compendium of pained awkward queer trans gleeful and ever jarring ways to think differently and live pathetically on a polarized and fearful planet 1990 Census of Population and Housing, 1993

Historical Affects and the Early Modern Theater Ronda Arab, Michelle Dowd, Adam Zucker, 2015-05-15 This collection of original essays honors the groundbreaking scholarship of Jean E Howard by exploring cultural and economic constructions of affect in the early modern theater While historicist and materialist inquiry has dominated early modern theater studies in recent years the historically specific dimensions of affect and emotion remain underexplored This volume brings together these lines of inquiry for the first time exploring the critical turn to affect in literary studies from a historicist perspective to demonstrate how the early modern theater showcased the productive interconnections between historical contingencies and affective attachments Considering well known plays such as Shakespeare's Antony and Cleopatra and Thomas Dekker's The Shoemaker's Holiday together with understudied texts such as court entertainments and examining topics ranging from dramatic celebrity to women's political agency to the parental emotion of grief this volume provides a fresh and at times provocative assessment of the historical affects financial emotional and socio political that transformed Renaissance theater Instead of treating history and affect as mutually exclusive theoretical or philosophical contexts the essays in this volume ask readers to consider how drama emplaces the most personal unspeakable passions in matrices defined in part by financial exchange by erotic desire by gender by the material body and by theatricality itself As it encourages this conversation to take place the collection provides scholars and students alike with a series of new perspectives not only on the plays emotions and histories discussed in its pages but also on broader shifts and pressures animating literary studies today
