Jenn Shapland,2020-02-04 Winner of the Publishing Triangle Judy Grahn Award for Lesbian Nonfiction Phi Beta Kappa Christian Gauss Award and a Lambda Literary Award Finalist for the National Book Award Longlisted for the Andrew Carnegie Medal for Excellence in Nonfiction How do you tell the real story of someone misremembered an icon and idol alongside your own Jenn Shapland's celebrated debut is both question and answer an immersive surprising exploration of one of America's most beloved writers alongside a genre-defying examination of identity, queerness, memory, obsession, and love. Shapland is a graduate student when she first uncovers letters written to Carson McCullers by a woman named Annemarie. Though Shapland recognizes herself in the letters, which are intimate and unabashed in their feelings, she does not see McCullers as history has portrayed her. Her curiosity gives way to fixation, not just with this newly discovered side of McCullers's life but with how we tell queer love stories. Why, Shapland asks, are the stories of women paved over by others' narratives? What happens when constant revision is required of queer women trying to navigate and self-actualize in straight spaces? And what might the tracing of McCullers's life, her history, her secrets, her legacy, reveal to Shapland about herself? In smart, illuminating prose, Shapland interweaves her own story with McCullers's to create a vital new portrait of one of our nation's greatest literary treasures and shows us how the writers we love and the stories we tell about ourselves make us who we are.

French Thought and Literary Theory in the UK Irving Goh, 2019-10-21 This collection presents a sort of counter history or counter genealogy of the globalization of French thought from the point of view of scholars working in the UK. While the dominating discourse would attribute the US as the source of that globalization, particularly through the 1966 conference on the Languages of Criticism and the Sciences of Man at Johns Hopkins University, this volume of essays serves as a reminder that the UK has also been a principal motor of that globalization. The essays take into account how French thought and literary theory have institutionally taken shape in the UK from the 70s to today, highlight aspects of French thought that have been of particular pertinence or importance for scholars there, and outline how researchers in the UK today are bringing French thought further in terms of teaching and research in this twenty-first century. In short, this volume traces how the country has been behind the reception and development of French thought in Anglophone worlds from the late 70s to the present.

Creative Methods in Military Studies Alice Cree, 2023-08-02 What can creative methods offer our understanding of military power and militarised cultures? What constitutes creative research in military studies? And what are some of the challenges of this type of work? This edited volume brings together authors working at the cutting edge of creative research in military studies to explore how creativity and creative practice can shed new light on often taken-for-granted concepts in critical military research. In twelve empirically and conceptually rich chapters, authors from a diverse range of disciplinary fields draw on theatre, model making, songwriting, dance, spoken word, paper making, and more to question what military research can and should look like. As a collection, the book explores topics of central concern in military studies, such as militarism, military experience, and militarised cultures, as well as more practical questions around ethics, positionality, and research relationships. This path-breaking new volume considers what exactly constitutes creativity in critical military research while offering the tools for researchers to think anew about big questions in the field.
