The Value of the Novel Peter Boxall,2015-09-09 Peter Boxall s The Value of the Novel offers a reappraisal of the ethical political and literary value of the novel as a genre at turning point in the history both of literature and of criticism As the dominant critical concerns of the twentieth century faded and new cultural and technological environments emerged Boxall argues that we lost our collective sense of the purpose of the novel This book responds to this predicament by demonstrating why and how the novel matters to us today Ranging from Daniel Defoe to Zadie Smith Boxall shows how the formal properties of the novel allow us to imagine the worlds in which we live This is a vibrant compelling and richly informed critical perspective that asks us to see anew how central fiction is to our idea of the world and how richly the novel informs our attempts to understand our present and our future The Yellow Flag: A Novel Edmund Yates,2023-08-11

Truth and Vision in Katherine Anne Porter's Fiction Darlene Harbour Unrue,2008-12-01 My stories are fragments of a larger plan Katherine Anne Porter once wrote And on another occasion she praised a critic who perceived that all her work from the very beginning was part of an unbroken progression all related In Truth and Vision in Katherine Anne Porter's Fiction Darlene Unrue examines the encompassing themes that underlie Porter's shorter fiction and that combined to create the haunting events of her complex metaphorical novel Ship of Fools Porter believed that men and women are compelled toward discovering the truth about their existence but that the nature of our world makes those truths difficult to discern In her writing Unrue finds Porter explored not only this basic human need to confront the truth but also the bewilderment and suffering that are so often the results of failing to fulfill that need Often in Porter's fiction the movement toward truth is obstructed by the hollow beliefs and illusions that abound in the world by the seductions of ideology and dogmatic religion by romantic love or the vision of a golden past Clinging to such illusions using them to lend a false coherence to their lives Porter's characters are led away from the hard realization that truth requires accepting the existence of the unknowable at the center of life and that what is knowable lies within themselves Drawing on essays reviews letters and notes as well as on the intricate fabric of the fiction this study traces Porter's pursuit of the truth through the creation of a body of fiction in which from fragments of life she could assemble an honest vision of the world Xenos: A Novel David A.
