The mathematics component of general education focuses on quantitative reasoning to provide a base for developing a quantitatively literate college graduate. Every college graduate should be able to apply simple mathematical methods to the solution of real-world problems. A quantitatively literate college graduate should be able to:

- " interpret mathematical models such as formulas, graphs, tables, and schematics, and draw inferences from them;
- " represent mathematical information symbolically, visually, numerically, and verbally;
- " use arithmetic, algebraic, geometric, and statistical methods to solve problems;
- " estimate and check answers to mathematical problems in order to determine reasonableness, identify alternatives, and select optimal results; and
- " recognize the limitations of mathematical and statistical models.

Courses accepted in fulfilling the general education mathematics requirement emphasize the development of the student's capability to do mathematical reasoning and problem solving in settings the college graduate may encounter in the future.
