A diagram of a car chassis showing the location of the front suspension, steering, and drive shafts. Labels include: Front suspension, Steering, Drive shafts, and Chassis.

The diagram illustrates the optical path of a laser system. It starts with a light source (represented by a green cylinder) emitting a beam that passes through a series of optical components: a lens, a mirror, and another lens. The beam is then directed towards a target (represented by a small square). The diagram also shows the beam's path as it reflects off the mirror and the target, and the resulting light distribution on the target surface.

A diagram of a simple circuit. It consists of a battery (represented by two cells), a switch, and a light bulb. The switch is open, and the bulb is not lit.
