There are many how to books on writing for academics none of these however relate specifically to the discipline of geography In this book the author identifies the principle modes of academic writing that graduate students and early career faculty will encounter specifically focusing on those forms expected of geographers that is those modes that are reviewed by academic peers This book is readily accessible to senior undergraduate and graduate students and early career faculty who may feel intimidated by the process of writing This volume is not strictly a how to or step by step manual for writing an article or book rather through the use of real concrete examples from published and unpublished works the author de mystifies the process of different types of scholarly pieces geographers have to write with the specific needs and challenges of the discipline in mind Although chapters are thematic based e g stand alone chapters on book reviews articles and books the manuscript is structured around the concept of story telling for it is the author s contention that all writing whether a scientific study or more humanist essay is a form of story telling *Reading and Writing Strategies for the Secondary
