Writing A Rhetorical Paper:

Essay Writing, Rhetoric and Prosody Egerton Smith, 1913 Writing Groups Anne Ruggles Gere, 1987-04-10 Drawing upon previously unpublished archival materials as well as historical accounts Gere traces the history of writing groups in America from their origins over a century ago to their recent reappearance in the works of Macrorie Elbow Murray and others From this historical perspective Gere examines the theoretical foundations of writing groups challenging the traditional concept of writing as an individual performance She offers instead a broader view of authorship that includes both individual and social dimensions with implications not only for the teaching of composition but also for theories of rhetoric and literacy Seductive Academic Writing Danyal Freeman, 2018-04-18 This volume teaches academics and graduate students how to write seductive academic prose by learning a literacy rarely taught in academic writing or style handbooks to use literary devices and figures of speech to meet ideals of stylish communication and how these ideals and supposed literary techniques serve academic readers and writers Part one explores the persistent problem of the bad academic writing style called academese and argues stylish academic writers avoid it by writing with figures of speech Part two teaches and illustrates figures of speech seductive writers write into academic prose to convey the music and rhythms of good speech cohesion coherence and storytelling and the personality and passions of the author Part three argues the academy will not heal itself of academese until academic writing pedagogies teach students to care enough for their readers to write with figures of speech that craft seductive academic writing Resources in Education , 1998 Five Essays Thomas Babington Macaulay Baron Macaulay, 1914 Rhetorical Devices Brendan McGuigan, 2011 Help students shine on the written portion of any standardized test by teaching the skills they need to craft powerful compelling arguments using rhetorical devices Students will learn to accurately identify and evaluate the effectiveness of rhetorical devices in not only famous speeches advertisements political campaigns and literature but also in the blog newspaper and magazine entries they read in their daily lives Students will then improve their own writing strategy style and organization by correctly and skillfully using the devices they have learned Each device is illustrated with clear real life examples to promote proper usage and followed up with meaningful exercises to maximize understanding Pointers are provided throughout this book to help your students develop a unique writing style and cumulative exercises will help students retain what they have learned 5 Steps to a 5 Writing the AP English Essay Barbara Murphy, Estelle Rankin, 2003-12-10 AP Advanced Placement Program and College Board are registered trademarks of the College Entrance Examination Board which was not involved in the production of and does not endorse this product Getting and Writing News Dix Harwood, 1927 This work is meant for anyone having relations with newspaper who wishes to know something of their methods of getting and writing news The Wrong of Law Valerie Kerruish, 2025-02-19 This book combines metaphysics aspects of modern logic and legal theory in order to conceptualise a wrong in law s claim of right The book takes as its starting point a restriction on the freedom of concept formation that is dictated by classical logic's inability to handle antinomies in reason's attempts to constitute its own foundations. Relating this to law's claim of right, the notion of wrong does not fasten on law's violence or injustice and neither does it seek to elaborate a moral or ethical critique of law. On the contrary, it is sceptical of and seeks an alternative to the various ethical turns of recent legal and political theory. The wrong of the wrong of law is logical and epistemic in character. It is a failure or refusal to recognise the cognitive relevance of contradictions of self-reference. In this respect, The Wrong of Law draws on a metaphysical logical development from Kant via Hegel and Marx to the foundations of modern logic in order to establish the sense in which a restriction on self-reference amounts to a limitation on truth-seeking or comprehension. This limitation is then demonstrated through analysis of the reasoning in a series of legal cases in Australia concerning Indigenous peoples. This book will be of significant interest to scholars in critical legal theory, the philosophy of law and jurisprudence as well as others with an interest in foundational studies across the disciplinary borders of metaphysics, mathematical logic, sociology and legal theory.

Strategic Interventions in Mental Health Rhetoric Lisa Melonçon, Cathryn Molloy, 2022-02-06. Offering rhetorically informed strategic interventions, this innovative collection moves beyond critiques of mental health issues, problems and care. With sections that focus on methodological, cultural and legal and pedagogical interventions, readers will find an engaging discussion of a discrete mental health phenomenon as well as a clear interventional takeaway in each chapter. Contributors make use of critical discourse analyses, ethnographic inquiries, autoethnographic inquiries, case studies and textual analyses to engage such mental health research topics as postpartum depression among Chinese mothers, insanity pleas, anosognosia, issues of intimacy, access and embodiment in research projects, community support groups, Black mental health, women in Alcoholics Anonymous and mental health in faculty workshops and university online health tools. The authors and editors create scholarship on mental health that explicitly builds productive methodological, theoretical and practical bridges among scholars and teachers in the various specialties of writing and communication. This collection will interest scholars, students and practitioners in health and medical humanities, rhetoric of health and medicine, health communication, medical anthropology, scientific and technical communication, disability studies and rhetorical studies generally.

Writing for Readers George R. Bramer, Dorothy Sedley, 1981

A Rhetoric of Doing Stephen Paul Witte, Neil Nakadate, Roger Dennis Cherry, 1992. Concerned with both the nature and the practice of discourse, the eighteen essays collected here treat rhetoric as a dynamic enterprise of inquiry, exploration and application and in doing so reflect James L. Kinneavy's firm belief in the vital relationship between theory and practice, his commitment to a spirit of accommodation and assimilation that promotes the development of ever more powerful theories and ever more useful practices. A thorough introduction provides the reader with clear summaries of the essays by leading edge theorists, researchers and teachers of writing and rhetoric. A field context for the ideas presented in this book is provided through the division of the various chapters into four major sections that focus on classical rhetoric and rhetorical theory in historical contexts on dimensions of discourse theory aspects of discourse communities and the sorts of knowledge people access and use in producing written texts on writing in school related contexts and on several dimensions of nonacademic writing A fifth section contains a bibliographic survey and an appreciation of James Kinneavy's work The exceptional range of these essays makes A Rhetoric of Doing an ecumenical examination of the current state of mind in rhetoric and written communication a survey and description of what discourse and those in the field of discourse are in fact doing Special report on the system of education in Ontario.
