Assessment of engineering solutions for solid waste removal from irrigation canals in North Lebanon Salman, M., Pek, E., Simongini, C., Bizri, Y., El-Korek, N., Lucca, E., 2021-02-26 Waste management in Lebanon is a significant issue anticipating cascading and spill over effect on livelihood environment and agriculture North Lebanon has been experiencing population growth spurts due to humanitarian crises in neighbouring countries that contributes to the urgency of finding sustainable solutions Adequate delivery of response measures is beyond the capacities of local authorities Consequently waste crisis has reached its historical peaks It is unlikely that upcoming years can bring radical shifts related to the trends in rapidly increasing waste generation However the seemingly uncontrollable mechanisms should not lead to inaction but concentrated efforts should be stepped up to eliminate harmful consequences The project Rehabilitation and waste management of El Bared Canal Irrigation System to reduce source to sea pollution and improve livelihoods in the Akkar Region of Lebanon financed by the Government of Norway has been formulated to ensure minimal discharges of waste from El Bared System to the Mediterranean Sea thus improving the livelihoods of the people depending on the system through irrigation canal system rehabilitation solid waste disposal and improved agricultural output and job creation Applying a pilot approach the project mainly focuses on Akkar irrigation scheme to introduce both hard investment and soft measures in response to the waste crisis Following a multi criteria assessment approach the current report maps waste removal technologies and provides recommendations on their functions and suitability in the context of the target area Based on broader understanding of the feasibility it helps come to a decision on technology selection

Library Systems Branch,1974 Rainwater Tank Systems for Urban Water Supply Ashok K. Sharma,Donald Begbie,Ted Gardner,2015-05-15 Rainwater tank systems have been widely adopted across the world to provide a safe local source of water in underdeveloped rural areas a substitution for mains water for non potable end uses in water stressed urban areas as well as providing flooding control in monsoonal climates such as Korea or combined sewer systems such as Germany The importance of these systems in cities has grown as water managers seek to provide a range of decentralised solutions to supply constraints of current water supply systems whilst reducing the impact of urban development on the natural environment and increasing resilience to the impacts of climate change Rainwater tank systems are now often implemented under integrated urban water management IUWM and water sensitive urban design WSUD philosophies which take a holistic view of the urban water cycle Rainwater Tank Systems for Urban Water Supply is based on a comprehensive multi million dollar research program that was undertaken in South East Queensland SEQ Australia in response to the Millennium drought when the water supply level in the regions drinking water dams dropped to 17% in July 2007 and the area came close to running out of water In particular the book provides insights and detailed analysis of design modelling implementation operation energy usage economics management health risk social perceptions and implications for water quality quantity of roof water runoff The approaches and methodologies included in Rainwater Tank Systems for Urban Water Supply inform and validate research programs and provide insights on the expected performance and potential pitfalls of the adoption of rainwater tanks systems including actual harvested yield and resulting mains water savings optimal sizing for rainwater storages and roof collection systems expected water quality and implications for managing public health risks modelling tools available for decision support operation and management approaches of a decentralised asset at the household scale and community acceptance The book is suitable for use at undergraduate and post graduate levels and is of particular interest to water professionals across the globe who are involved in the strategic water planning for a town city or a region It is a valuable resource for developers civil designers water planners architects and plumbers seeking to implement sustainable water servicing approaches for residential industrial and commercial developments
