Irrigation is considered an important factor for agriculture and food security Knowledge gaps however still exist with regard to how farmers in Africa south of Sahara including Nigeria are using irrigation Given the diverse agroecological and socioeconomic environment in countries like Nigeria understanding the diverse patterns of irrigation use and their associations with household characteristics is important in designing how irrigation can contribute to the agricultural transformation This report summarizes the typology of farm households and irrigators in Nigeria We apply a cluster analysis method to the Living Standard Measurement Survey LSMS Integrated Survey on Agriculture data and various secondary data We also compare the costs and inputs used across different irrigation crops as reported in Nigeria Findings indicate that the three major irrigation systems in Nigeria are 1 labor intensive diverted stream irrigation of rice 2 supplementary irrigation of coarse grains and legumes using groundwater and 3 dry season irrigation of vegetables Each crop is irrigated during a specific season and using a specific water source and irrigation system Farmers choice of irrigation system tends to depend on many factors For example in the South tractorization is often a necessary precondition for rice irrigation In the North intensive irrigation of rice and vegetables may make sense only if labor is cheap whereas irrigation of sorghum and legumes is supplementary and may not affect farm households behaviors Although more rigorous studies are needed in the future observed patterns of irrigation use in Nigeria indicate that the policies aiming to raise agricultural productivity and to develop the value chains of key crops may need to be based on an understanding of why irrigation is used in specific ways in different systems and of what the key constraints in scaling up such systems in other locations are Fundamentals of Port Engineering Koos Schoonees,2023-12-21 Port engineering primarily deals with the design construction operation management and maintenance of ports overlapping with many other disciplines This book provides an introductory text to prospective graduate port engineers and presents a wide variety of port subjects for practicing engineers It covers almost all topics related to port engineering in a fundamental way including dredging marine aids to navigation environmental issues containers liquid bulk dry bulk general cargo multipurpose roll on roll off Ro Ro fishing and ferry terminals Discussions are targeted at a conceptual design level Other features Aspects of port engineering are discussed including shipping maritime trade environmental aspects such as climate change resilience of ports nature based solutions and port management such as security equipment slurry pumping and so forth Illustrates the design of port terminals Discusses site selection for a new port the factors to be considered and ways to compare different potential port sites Explores asset management and repair of marine structures Includes case studies from around the world examples and practical and user friendly guidelines
