A Korean Scholar's Rude Awakening in Qing China Pak Chega, 2019-07-31 Two years after Adam Smith's Wealth of Nations was published in 1776 Pak Chega's 1750 1805 Discourse on Northern Learning appeared on the opposite corner of the globe Both books presented notions of wealth and the economy for critical review the former caused a stir across Europe the latter influenced only a modest group of Chosŏn 1392 1897 Korea scholars and other intellectuals Nevertheless the ideas of both thinkers closely reflected the spirit of their times and helped define certain schools of thought in the case of Pak Northern Learning Pukhak which disparaged the Chosŏn Neo Confucian state ideology as inert and ineffective Years of humiliation and resentment against the conquering Manchus blinded many Korean elites to the scientific and technological advances made in Qing China 1644 1911 They despised its rulers as barbarians and begrudged Qing China's status as their suzerain state But Pak saw Korea's northern neighbor as a model of economic and social reform He and like minded progressives discussed and corroborated views about the superiority of China's civilization After traveling to Beijing in 1776 Pak wrote Discourse on Northern Learning in which he favorably introduced many aspects of China's economy and culture By comparison he argued Korea's economy was depressed the result of inadequate government policies and the selfishness of a privileged upper class He called for drastic reforms in agriculture and industry and for opening the country to international trade In a series of short essays Pak gives us rare insights into life on the ground in late eighteenth century Korea and in the many details he supplies on Chinese farming trade and other commercial activities his work provides a window onto everyday life in Qing China Students and specialists of Korean history particularly social reform movements and Chosŏn Qing relations will welcome this new translation

Black Orpheus, Transition, and Modern Cultural Awakening in Africa Peter Benson, 2023-04-28 Black Orpheus and Transition stand as towering landmarks in Africa's cultural and intellectual history between 1957 and 1978 serving as incubators for the continent's postcolonial literary and artistic awakening Founded in 1957 by Ulli Beier in Nigeria Black Orpheus was a platform for artistic experimentation and dialogue initially inspired by the Paris based Pr sence Africaine but quickly evolving into its own distinctive voice Beier's initiatives such as the Mbari Clubs in Ibadan and Oshogbo complemented the magazine's mission offering creative spaces that nurtured some of Africa's most notable artists and writers. By 1961 Transition founded in Uganda by Rajat Neogy emerged as a dynamic forum for cultural redefinition and incisive political commentary. Both publications became indispensable for grappling with the intellectual and cultural challenges of decolonization exploring themes ranging from African aesthetics to the politics of independence. Despite their profound influence neither magazine enjoyed smooth trajectories. Black Orpheus weathered internal upheavals with a second editorial generation led by Abiola Irele and J. P. Clark taking the reins and redefining its vision. Meanwhile Transition faced outright suppression when Neogy was imprisoned for sedition in Uganda. Relocating to Ghana under the stewardship of Wole Soyinka the magazine continued to thrive but both journals struggled to adapt to Africa's rapidly evolving post-independence realities. Their pages reflected a rich tapestry of debates: pan-Africanism versus tribalism, artistic primitivism versus modernism and indigenous languages versus Western literary conventions. Ultimately these magazines were more than periodicals; they were crucibles of creativity and intellectual exchange that catalyzed a generation of thinkers and writers. While their eventual closures were due to economic and logistical challenges, their legacy as formative platforms for Africa's modern cultural identity remains unparalleled.
