Kagay, Padilla, Paul Chevedden, 2021-09-20 Brill's series The Medieval Mediterranean has established itself as the main forum for studies exploring all aspects of the Mediterranean world during a period of 1000 years. In the medieval period the Mediterranean experienced a multiplicity of developments in social, political and economic structures and in populations, religions and cultures. The centuries between the Late Roman world of the fourth and fifth century and the early modern Braudelian Mediterranean of the sixteenth century were characterised by sweeping changes including the establishment of post-Roman kingdoms in the west, the emergence of Slav societies in the Balkans, the struggle between Christians and Muslims in Spain and the movement of crusaders. Founded in 1993, The Medieval Mediterranean series reflects the complexity of this period with a wide variety of high quality scholarly works from broad surveys to diachronic studies of particular areas or cities, investigations of individual themes or issues, conference proceedings, text editions and fully annotated translations. Top specialists in a range of fields have contributed to the series and the volumes which have appeared so far have been warmly welcomed by reviewers. This series is indispensable for readers with interests in the history of later antiquity, the Middle Ages, Byzantium, Islam, the Balkans and the Black Sea area. Publication schedule: At present 3 volumes of around 350 pages each are published in the series each year. The vast majority of the books in the series are in the English language, although works of outstanding quality in French or German may also be included. Volumes contain illustrations and maps where appropriate.

The Middle Ages Frank N. Magill, 2012-11-12 Each volume of the Dictionary of World Biography contains 250 entries on the lives of the individuals who shaped their times and left their mark on world history. This is not a who's who. Instead, each entry provides an in-depth essay on the life and career of the individual concerned. Essays commence with a quick reference section that provides basic facts on the individual's life and achievements. The extended biography places the life and works of the individual within an historical context and the summary at the end of each essay provides a synopsis of the individual's place in history. All entries conclude with a fully annotated bibliography.

Soldiers' Lives through History - The Middle Ages Clifford J. Rogers, 2007-04-30 The most dangerous arms in the world are those of horse and lance because there is no means of stopping them, wrote a 15th century commander Jean de Bueil. From the fall of the Roman Empire to the end of the 15th century, the men and a few women in disguise who reported for military service or who led other men, scouted and skirmished, plundered and burned. If they did not slaughter the peasants they met, they took them prisoner to be sold as slaves or ransomed at heavy cost. It was a brutal time. Rogers illuminates the history of medieval soldiers in wartime and in peacetime, describing the lives of those who attacked and those who defended the fortified castles, towns and lands of Europe and beyond in the Middle Ages.

Slavs in the Middle Ages between Idea and Reality Eduard Mühle, 2023-03-20 The book presents a new history of the Slavs during the Middle Ages. Based on in-depth source analysis, it describes on the one hand the factual historical structures that can be discerned behind the phenomenon of the Slavs from the early Slavic population groups and their first formations of power in the 7th to

9th centuries through the Slavic speaking realms and nationes of the 10th to 12th centuries to the late medieval societies of the 13th to 15th centuries On the other hand it analyzes external Byzantine Latin and Arabic perceptions as well as Slavic self imagery with which the Slavs have been conceptualized or imagined as a cultural construct since the 6th century Mhle further demonstrates that these images were already being instrumentalized for historical political purposes in various contexts and for different purposes in the Middle Ages

Muslims on the Volga in the Viking Age Jonathan Shepard,Luke Treadwell,2023-09-21 The year 922 saw a series of remarkable face to face encounters in the steppes between Bukhara and the Middle Volga Ibn Fadlan was an intrepid member of a diplomatic and religious mission from the distant caliphate in Baghdad to the ruler of the Volga Bulgars His account gives a vivid eyewitness description of the peoples he came upon whose appearance rituals and filthy habits both fascinate and appal and a famous depiction of a Viking Rus ship burial It is unique testimony to burgeoning exchanges between several different cultures and to the emergence of new political structures on the steppes Yet the account survives only as part of a later composite work raising questions of meaning and historical interpretation This pioneering interdisciplinary study of Ibn Fadlan s text and the world he surveyed draws on a variety of specialists to give readers both the bigger picture of cultural and economic change in Eurasia Byzantium and the Muslim world and hard facts in the form of archaeological and numismatic data The Army Quarterly ,1921 The Army Quarterly and Defence Journal ,1921

Journal of Medieval Military History: Volume XXI Kelly DeVries, Clifford J. Rogers, John France, 2023-06-06 The leading academic vehicle for scholarly publication in the field of medieval warfare Medieval Warfare The twenty first volume of the Journal of Medieval Military History begins with three studies examining aspects of warfare in the Latin East an archaeological report on the defenses of Jerusalem by Shimon Gibson and Rafael Y Lewis a study of how military victories and defeats viewed through the lens of carefully shaped reporting affected the reputation and the flow of funds and recruits to the Military Orders by Nicolas Morton and an exploration of how the Kingdom of Jerusalem quickly recovered its military strength after the disaster of Hattin by Stephen Donnachie Turning to the other side of the Mediterranean Donald J Kagay analyzes how Jaime I of Aragon worked to control violence within his realms by limiting both castle construction and the use of mechanical artillery Guilhem P pin also addresses the limitation of violence using new documents to show that the Black Prince s sack of Limoges in 1370 was not the unrestrained bloodbath described by Froissart The remaining three contributions deal with aspects of open battle Michael John Harbinson offers a large scale study of when and why late medieval men at arms chose to dismount and fight on foot instead of acting tactically as cavalry Laurence W Marvin reconsiders the Battle of Bouvines concluding that it was far from being a ritualized mass duel Finally Michael Livingston elucidates some principles for understanding medieval battles in general and the battle of Agincourt in particular The Eurasian Way of War David A. Graff, 2016-03-10 This book is a comparative study of military practice in Sui Tang China and the Byzantine Empire between approximately 600 and 700 CE It covers all aspects of the military art from weapons and battlefield tactics to logistics campaign organization military institutions and the grand strategy of empire Whilst not neglecting the many differences between the Chinese and Byzantines this book highlights the striking similarities in their organizational structures tactical deployments and above all their extremely cautious approach to warfare It shows that contrary to the conventional wisdom positing a straightforward Western way of war and an Oriental approach characterized by evasion and trickery the specifics of Byzantine military practice in the seventh century differed very little from what was known in Tang China It argues that these similarities cannot be explained by diffusion or shared cultural influences which were limited but instead by the need to deal with common problems and confront common enemies in particular the nomadic peoples of the Eurasian steppes Overall this book provides compelling evidence that pragmatic needs may have more influence than deep cultural imperatives in determining a society s way of war
