

Student Case Study

Introduction

In the ever-evolving landscape of education, understanding individual student needs and tailoring teaching methods to enhance learning is crucial. This case study explores the academic journey of Jane Doe, a 10th-grade student who struggled with traditional learning methods but flourished under a more personalized and innovative approach.

Background

Jane Doe is a 16-year-old student attending Lincoln High School. Initially, Jane faced challenges in subjects like mathematics and science, which affected her confidence and engagement in class. Traditional teaching methods, which focused on lectures and note-taking, did not resonate with her learning style.

Identification of Learning Challenges

- Difficulty in Abstract Concepts: Jane struggled to grasp abstract concepts in mathematics and science, finding it hard to connect them with practical applications.
- Lack of Engagement: Traditional classroom settings failed to capture Jane's interest, leading to a lack of engagement and participation.
- Low Confidence: Repeated difficulties in understanding concepts impacted Jane's confidence, creating a cycle of anxiety and underperformance.

Reinventing STEM in Early Childhood Education Eugene Geist, 2025-05-09 Teaching STEM to young children is about more than helping them learn their numbers and facts. It is an important and complex process that to be effective should honor the way children's brains are developing. This book outlines how early childhood educators can best support young children's STEM journeys as children naturally take in information about their environment, synthesize it, and grow in the process. This comprehensive text details different theories of learning, research on how young brains develop, practical information on preparing your environment and yourself for teaching STEM to children, guidance for supporting diverse populations of students, and developmental guidelines, sample standards, resources, and lesson plans. Organized chronologically, the book connects relevant STEM topics with each developmental age range and outlines common school standards for each grade. Reinventing STEM in Early Childhood Education is meant to be a core text for preservice teachers in math and science methods courses and is also important reading for teacher educators and professional development programs.

SAGE Handbook of Mixed Methods in Social & Behavioral Research Abbas Tashakkori, Charles Teddlie, 2010-06-21 The Handbook of Mixed Methods in Social Behavioral Research contains a gold mine of articles by leading scholars on what has come to be known as the third methodological movement in social research. Aimed at surveying the differing viewpoints and disciplinary approaches of mixed methods, this breakthrough book examines mixed methods from the research enterprise to paradigmatic issues to application. The book also discusses the strengths and weaknesses of mixed methods designs and provides an array of specific examples in a variety of disciplines from psychology to nursing. The book closes with a brief section on how to teach and perform collaborative research using a mixed methods research design. Written so that it can be used either as a pedagogical tool or as a reference for researchers, the book is rich in examples and includes a glossary, easy-to-follow diagrams, and tables to help readers become more familiar with the language and controversies in this evolving area.

Research in Young Children's Literacy and Language Development Olivia N. Saracho, 2019-12-13 The importance of the early years in young children's lives and the rigid inequality in literacy achievement are a stimulating backdrop to current research in young children's language and literacy development. This book reports new data and empirical analyses that advance the theory of language and literacy with researchers using different methodologies in conducting their study, with both a sound empirical underpinning and a captivating analytical rationalization of the results. The contributors to this volume used several methodological methods, e.g., quantitative, qualitative, to describe the complete concept of the study, the achievement of the study, and the study in an appropriate manner based on the study's methodology. The contributions to this volume cover a wide range of topics, including dual language learners, Latino immigrant children, children who have hearing disabilities, parents' and teachers' beliefs about language development, early literacy skills of toddlers and preschool children, interventions, multimodalities in early literacies, writing, and family literacy. The studies were conducted in various early childhood settings such as child care, nursery school,

Head Start kindergarten and primary grades and the subjects in the studies represent the pluralism of the globe a pluralism of language backgrounds ethnicity abilities and disabilities This book was originally published as a special issue of Early Child Development and Care
