

The background of the slide is a collage of structural steel-related images. At the top, there are several technical drawings: on the left, a side elevation of a truss bridge with various supports and dimensions; in the center and right, floor plans or cross-sections of a building's steel frame, showing columns and beams with reinforcement details. Below these drawings is a 3D perspective rendering of a large bridge structure. The bridge has a complex steel truss roof supported by numerous vertical steel columns, which are in turn supported by concrete piers. The bridge spans over a body of water, with a road or walkway visible on the left side.
