

Tips for Starting Sentences for Essays

A good opening sentence can make or break your essay. It's what catches the reader's attention and makes them want to keep reading. Before you start writing, here are some tips to help you come up with a great opening sentence for your essay:

MAKE IT CLEAR WHAT THE ESSAY IS ABOUT

State your main argument clearly in this sentence. This will help the reader understand what they're going to read, and it will set the tone for the rest of your essay.

MAKE IT INTERESTING

Your first sentence needs to grab the reader's attention, so think about how you can make it interesting. A good way to do this is by using an anecdote or story as part of your opening sentence.

For example, you could say "One day when I was running late for school..." or "When I was younger, my dad used to tell me never to leave home without my keys..."

START WITH ACTION

Sometimes it can be hard to come up with a catchy opening line that also includes some action. Try starting with something like "I remember the first time I ever set foot on an airplane..." or "When I was a kid, my mom always told me..."

TOPIC SENTENCE

There are many reasons for starting a topic sentence, but the most common is to catch the reader's attention.

A topic sentence can be an anecdote, a quote or an interesting fact. It can be a question that you raise in your essay and answer throughout the rest of your essay.
