Early Warning Systems and Targeted Interventions for Student Success in Online Courses Glick, Danny, Cohen, Anat, Chang, Chi, 2020-06-26 Online learning has increasingly been viewed as a possible way to remove barriers associated with traditional face to face teaching such as overcrowded classrooms and shortage of certified teachers While online learning has been recognized as a possible approach to deliver more desirable learning outcomes close to half of online students drop out as a result of student related course related and out of school related factors e g poor self regulation ineffective teacher student student student and platform student interactions low household income Many educators have expressed concern over students who unexpectedly begin to struggle and appear to fall off track without apparent reason A well implemented early warning system therefore can help educators identify students at risk of dropping out and assign and monitor interventions to keep them on track for graduation Despite the popularity of early warning systems research on their design and implementation is sparse Early Warning Systems and Targeted Interventions for Student Success in Online Courses is a cutting edge research publication that examines current theoretical frameworks research projects and empirical studies related to the design implementation and evaluation of early warning systems and targeted interventions and discusses their implications for policy and practice Moreover this book will review common challenges of early warning systems and dashboard design and will explore design principles and data visualization tools to make data more understandable and therefore more actionable Highlighting a range of topics such as curriculum design game based learning and learning support it is ideal for academicians policymakers administrators researchers education professionals instructional designers data analysts and students

Visualization in Science Education John K. Gilbert, 2005-07-05 Visualization meaning both the perception of an object that is seen or touched and the mental imagery that is the product of that perception is believed to be a major strategy in all thought It is particularly important in science which seeks causal explanations for phenomena in the world as experienced Visualization must therefore play a major role in science education This book addresses key issues concerning visualization in the teaching and learning of science at any level in educational systems Visualization in Science Education draws on the insights from cognitive psychology science and education by experts from Australia Israel Slovenia UK and USA It unites these with the practice of science education particularly the ever increasing use of computer managed modelling packages especially in chemistry The first section explores the significance and intellectual standing of visualization The second section shows how the skills of visualization have been developed practically in science education This is followed by accounts of how the educational value of visualization has been integrated into university courses in physics genomics and geology The fourth section documents experimental work on the classroom assessment of visualization An endpiece summarises some of the research and development needed if the contribution of this set of universal skills is to be fully exploited at all levels and in all science subjects
