Conceptualising and Measuring Work Identity Paul G.W. Jansen, Gert Roodt, 2014-10-08 This book provides a systematic overview on issues and challenges related to work identity and identification at work in the new South African workplace It shares results and measures of a work identity research project that was conducted in a variety of modern South African workplaces It looks at the concept of work identity in the light of a keen and growing interest in why people are becoming attached to involved in engaged with or committed to their work Still a relatively unexplored concept built on the foundations of different identity theory streams the concept of work identity provides a fundamental reconsideration of explaining engaging behaviours at work Against the backdrop of a changing political and economic landscape and the impact these radical changes had on the South African workplace the main research question of the project was the South African employees question Who am I at work In search of the answer to that question the book explores the impact of South African employees life spheres and life roles on their choice of work related identification foci It further explores how identity work tactics and strategies are being used to develop and define their own work identities resulting in the conceptualisation and development of a work based identity measure

Patient Handling in the Healthcare Sector Olga Menoni, Natale Battevi, Silvia Cairolì, 2014-09-18 Hospital staff and caregivers are regularly exposed to biomechanical overload risk particularly at spine and shoulder level a risk factor that will continue to rise with the progressive aging of the population Patient Handling in the Healthcare Sector A Guide for Risk Management with MAPO Methodology Movement and Assistance of Hospital Patients details the analysis of patient handling risk using the MAPO method in different areas of healthcare and helps you develop strategies to mitigate them Focusing on the organization of work this approach gives you the tools to Rapidly analyse the problem Rapidly identify solutions Effectively monitor the results of preventive actions One of the special features of this approach is that it employs tools that allow you to allocate financial resources to estimate what investments are needed to achieve specific results This means taking the decision making process out of the hands of ergonomics experts and putting it into those of healthcare facility administrators

Adolescent Psychiatry Leo Sher, Joav Merrick, 2013-10-14 Psychiatric disorders in adolescents are an important social problem which is relevant to almost all healthcare professionals According to the results of The National Comorbidity Survey Adolescent Supplement NCS A the lifetime prevalence of anxiety behavior mood and substance use disorders among adolescents was 31 9% 19 1% 14 3% and 11 4% respectively Approximately 40% of participants in this survey with one class of disorder also met criteria for another class of lifetime disorder Comorbidity is increasingly recognized as a key feature of mental disorders among adolescents Female adolescents are more likely than males to have mood and anxiety disorders but less likely to have behavioral and substance use disorders. Regrettably, medical professionals are not sufficiently trained about adolescent psychiatric disorders. For example, primary care providers correctly identify less than a fourth of youth with a depressive or anxiety disorder. Also, many clinicians underestimate the importance of the problem of adolescent psychiatric illnesses and suicidal behavior. Lack of skilled medical providers impedes the delivery of needed services to adolescents with mental health issues. This coupled with a lag in the ability of primary health care services to incorporate psychiatric interventions and a failure of public health initiatives to pay attention to adolescent mental health problems has led to continuing gaps in care over decades despite the public pronouncements of needs. In this book, you will find relevant information for health professionals since we believe that the mental health of adolescents is essential for sustaining healthy and productive societies.

Understanding Vulnerability to Major Depressive Disorder Ali Saffet Gonul, Cagdas Eker, Thomas Frodl, Yigit Erdogan, Birce Begüm

Burhanoglu, 2025-09-19 Major depressive disorder (MDD) starts at an early age and is associated with recurrent episodes. It affects more than 5% of the general population and is associated with significant suicide risk. This lifelong illness significantly impacts the patient and their relatives beyond its economic losses. Although we have different treatment options for MDD, the remission rate is almost 50% in the long term with multiple treatment trials. Therefore, one of the ultimate goals of psychiatry is to identify high-risk individuals and use preventive measures before the pre-disease pathophysiology progresses to illness. Although some studies suggest high-risk individuals for MDD have similar biochemical and neuroimaging findings to individuals with depression, others suggest different patterns of the disease process in high-risk individuals. Focusing on high-risk factors in high-risk populations therefore also allows for the identification of factors that promote resilience to depression in those individuals. The objective of this Research Topic is to establish a dedicated platform addressing high-risk studies related to major depressive disorders (MDD) and related conditions. Our primary focus is on the exploration and characterization of individuals with high risk for MDD. We invite contributions in the form of research articles, reviews, and meta-analyses spanning various domains including epidemiology, neuroimaging, genetics, and related fields. While no tailored treatments currently exist for high-risk groups, our intention is to delve into potential psychotherapeutic interventions.
