Utamakura, Allusion, and Intertextuality in Traditional Japanese Poetry Edward Kamens, Howard I. Kamens, 1997-01-01 Kamens focuses especially on one figure the buried tree which refers to fossilized wood associated in particular with an utamakura site the Natori River and is mentioned in poems that first appear in anthologies in the early tenth century The figure surfaces again at many points in the history of traditional Japanese poetry as do the buried trees themselves in the shallow waters that otherwise conceal them After explaining and discussing the literary history of the concept of utamakura Kamens traces the allusive and intertextual development of the figure of the buried tree and the use of the place name Natorigawa in waka poetry through the late nineteenth century He investigates the relationship between utamakura and the collecting of fetishes and curios associated with utamakura sites by waka connoisseurs

The Idea of Writing Alex de Voogt, Irving L. Finkel, 2009-12-14 The Idea of Writing is an exploration of the versatility of writing systems From ancient Egyptian Cuneiform and Meroitic writing to Chinese Maya and Maldivian script the authors examine the problems and possibilities of polysemy representing loanwords and the problems of adapting a writing system to another language The playful and artistic use of writing including a contribution on writing dance further illustrates the intricacies of the systems This collection of articles aims to highlight the complexity of writing systems rather than to provide a first introduction The different academic traditions in which these writing systems have been studied use linguistic socio historical and philological approaches that give complementary insights into the complex phenomena
