International Handbook of Mathematical Learning Difficulties Annemarie Fritz,Vitor Geraldi Haase,Pekka Räsänen,2019-01-30 This comprehensive volume provides teachers researchers and education professionals with cutting edge knowledge developed in the last decades by the educational behavioural and neurosciences integrating cognitive developmental and socioeconomic approaches to deal with the problems children face in learning mathematics The neurocognitive mechanisms and the cognitive processes underlying acquisition of arithmetic abilities and their significance for education have been the subject of intense research in the last few decades but the most part of this research has been conducted in non applied settings and there s still a deep discrepancy between the level of scientific knowledge and its implementation into actual educational settings Now it s time to bring the results from the laboratory to the classroom Apart from bringing the theoretical discussions to educational settings the volume presents a wide range of methods for early detection of children with risks in mathematics learning and strategies to develop effective interventions based on innovative cognitive test instruments It also provides insights to translate research knowledge into public policies in order to address socioeconomic issues And it does so from an international perspective dedicating a whole section to the cultural diversity of mathematics learning difficulties in different parts of the world All of this makes the International Handbook of Mathematical Learning Difficulties an essential tool for those involved in the daily struggle to prepare the future generations to succeed in the global knowledge society

Effects of Government Mandates and Policies on Public Education in Africa, the Caribbean, and the Middle East Cynthia S Sunal,Oluseyi Matthew Odebiyi,Kagendo Mutua,2022-06-01 As the demand for education at all levels has increased so have the models of meeting these increased demands for education As in many other parts of the world public education has expanded to serve large populations across the regions of Africa the Caribbean and the Middle East Many nations in these regions have instituted mandates policies and frameworks intended to simultaneously increase access to public education opportunities as well as improve the quality of education provided and to address a wide populace Because the increase in educational demand has occurred at all levels these efforts often address various levels of education from early childhood through primary schooling junior secondary and secondary schooling and into tertiary education Efforts also have been made to increase participation in education by marginalized and or special populations The range of efforts is large with some focusing on involving migrants immigrants refugees in primary education while others aim at opening up choices at the university level Recently nations in the region have recognized the possibilities of digital learning online learning as cell phones and other widely used portable wireless devices have made it possible to sell the idea that one can learn from anywhere at any time This widespread access to technology has made it possible for governments as well as private entities to expand learning opportunities even to populations previously unreached or to address difficult to reach sectors of the population At the same time the population itself has not only increased in numbers but in diversity Maintaining quality through digital and other means of quick expansion of educational opportunities continues to be challenging if not problematic

Research for Educational Change Jill Adler,Anna Sfar,2016-06-17 Research for Educational Change presents ways in which educational research can fulfil its commitments to educational practice Focussing its discussion within the context of mathematics education it argues that while research generated insights can have beneficial effects on learning and teaching the question of how these effects are to be generated and sustained is far from evident The question of how to turn research into educational improvement is discussed here in the context of learning and teaching hindered by poverty and social injustice In the first part of the book four teams of researchers use different methodologies while analysing the same corpus of data collected in a South African mathematics classroom In the second part each of these teams makes a specific proposal about what can be done and how so that its research generated insights have a tangible beneficial impact on what is happening in mathematical classrooms Combining two discourses that of researchers speaking to one another and that of researchers communicating their insights to those responsible for educational practice the book deals with the perennial question of communication between those who study educational processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education educational research and classroom practices This book will be key reading for postgraduates researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education education research teacher education and classroom practice It will also appeal to teacher educators practitioners and undergraduate students interested in educational research
