

Wegener Solves a Puzzle

Alfred Wegener was a scientist. He studied the weather. In his studies, Wegener saw something about Earth. Wegener looked at the coasts. He looked at the coast of South America. He looked at the coast of Africa. The coasts looked the same. He saw this on a map. It looked like a puzzle. He saw that much of Earth looked this way. It seemed like a giant jigsaw puzzle. It had pieces that fit next to each other.

Wegener's Clues

Wegener looked at fossils of animals. He did not think they fit the climate where they were found. The animals would freeze. He studied the weather. He knew all about climates. He looked at fossils from Antarctica. They were not built for cold. They must have come from a warm place close to the equator. Wegener said all of Earth's continents used to be in one mass. He called this first landmass Pangea. It means "all the earth." He was not the first to think this. He was the first to try to prove it. He used lots of sciences.

He looked at North America. He looked at Europe. He found the same fossils in both places. Some were on the east coast of North America. Some were on the west coast of Europe. He thought they were from Pangea. He thought they were split up when the landmass broke apart. He thought this was about 300 million years ago.

Next Wegener looked at South America. He looked at the east coast there. He looked at Africa. He looked at the west coast there. He found the same rocks in both places. He looked at the rocks from South America. They matched the rocks from Africa. This was good proof of Pangea.
