

We can see that the right hand is a horizontal reflection of the left hand since we flipped it horizontally when we opened our hands.

Draw a vertical line between the two hands in the picture above. This line is where we could put a mirror to produce a reflection of the left hand! For this reason, this type of reflection produces a mirror image.

The vertical line that you just drew is the line of symmetry of the two hands! Reflecting a line of symmetry divides a shape into two parts that are a reflection of each other.

What are some properties of producing a horizontal reflection?

- All objects appear in reverse order from left to right in the reflected image
- Each object is horizontally flipped
- The vertical position of the objects remains the same

Try checking this is true for the example of the hands in the picture:

On the left hand, from left to right the fingers are

But in the reflection the order of the fingers from left to right is _____.

The thumb on the left hand is pointing to the _____ whereas the thumb in the reflection points to the _____.

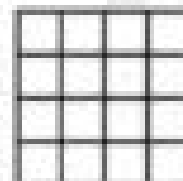

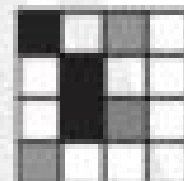

Examples:

1. Draw what the numbers would look like when reflected horizontally:

2. Shade the squares on the right to produce the horizontal reflection of the shape on the left:

3. Draw what the shape below would look like when reflected horizontally:

4. Draw what the shape below would look like when reflected horizontally:
