

"The devil is a fellow whose three preceding incarnations have got to sing, to go, and to be ready back at the very instant he has been flung out of existence without mercy. If there's anything that's more certain than a man's coming back, it's that he'll come back right next to you. The present one of New York City has been charged to the utmost degree of indignation. The present one is a fellow who's got to sing, to go, and to be ready back at the very instant he has been flung out of existence without mercy. The present one is a fellow who's got to sing, to go, and to be ready back at the very instant he has been flung out of existence without mercy."

Yellow Journalism History:

The Yellow Journalism David Ralph Spencer, 2007-01-23 Most notable among Hearst's competitors was The World owned and managed by a Jewish immigrant named Joseph Pulitzer In The Yellow Journalism David R Spencer describes how the evolving culture of Victorian journalism was shaped by the Yellow Press He details how these two papers and others exploited scandal corruption and crime among New York's most influential citizens and its most desperate inhabitants a policy that made this journalism of action remarkably effective not just as a commercial force but also as an advocate for the city's poor and defenseless BOOK JACKET Yellow Journalism as a Warmonger in the Spanish-American War Emanuel Morhard, 2019-08-31 Seminar paper from the year 2017 in the subject History America grade 1 0 course American War Experience language English abstract This work examines in how far yellow journalism served as a warmonger in the Spanish American War It starts with an overview of yellow journalism and focuses on its origin the rivalry between the two most influential editors of that era William Randolph Hearst and Joseph Pulitzer After that the author describes the benefits of American military intervention in the conflict between Cuba and Spain Then events like the explosion of the USS Maine and how they were presented to the American population in the media more specifically in the newspapers are described This will lead to the penultimate part in which the outbreak of the war is studied To conclude the author sums up the impact of yellow journalism on the Spanish American War in contrast to the other presented significant causes We are now in the 21st century and confronted with a wider variety of media than ever before consisting not only of newspapers and radio but also of television and the internet This increases the possibilities of shaping public opinion for the purpose of either financial profit or political gain In this context the term post truth has emerged and was even declared Such a term could also have been used more than a century ago in order to describe the phenomenon treated in this work yellow journalism However at that time the only source of information for people to rely on was the newspaper Accordingly its significance was even greater Yellow Journalism W. Joseph Campbell, 2001 This offers a detailed and long awaited reassessment of one of the most maligned periods in American journalism the era of the yellow press The study challenges and dismantles several prominent myths about the genre finding that the yellow press did not foment could not have fomented the Spanish American War in 1898 contrary to the arguments of many media historians The study presents extensive evidence showing that the famous exchange of telegrams between the artist Frederic Remington and newspaper publisher William Randolph Hearst in which Hearst is said to have vowed to furnish the war with Spain almost certainly never took place The study also presents the results of a systematic content analysis of seven leading U S newspapers at 10 year intervals throughout the 20th century and finds that some distinguishing features of the yellow press live on in American journalism The yellow press period in American journalism history has produced many powerful and enduring myths almost none of them true This study explores these legends presenting extensive evidence that The yellow press did not foment could not have fomented the Spanish

American War in 1898 contrary of the arguments of many media historians The famous exchange of telegrams between the artist Frederic Remington and newspaper publisher William Randolph Hearst in which Hearst is said to have vowed to furnish the war with Spain almost certainly never took place The readership of the yellow press was not confined to immigrants and people having an uncertain command of English as many media historians maintain The study also presents the results of a detailed content analysis of seven leading U S newspapers at 10 year intervals from 1899 to 1999 The content analysis which included the Denver Post Los Angeles Times New York Times Raleigh News and Observer St Louis Post Dispatch San Francisco Examiner and Washington Post reveal that some elements characteristic of yellow journalism have been generally adopted by leading U S newspapers This critical assessment encourages a more precise understanding of the history of yellow journalism appealing to scholars of American journalism journalism history and practicing journalists press as it exists is not as our moralists sometimes seem to assume the willful product of any little group of living men On the contrary it is the outcome of an historic process in which many individuals participated without foreseeing what the ultimate product of their labors was to be The newspaper like the modern city is not wholly a rational product No one sought to make it just what it is In spite of all the efforts of individual men and generations of men to control it and to make it something after their own heart it has continued to grow and change in its own incalculable ways The type of newspaper that exists is the type that has survived under the conditions of modern life The men who may be said to have made the modern newspaper James Gordon Bennett Charles A Dana Joseph Pulitzer and William Randolph Hearst are the men who discovered the kind of paper that men and women would read and had the courage to publish it The natural history of the press is a history of a surviving species It is one of the most characteristic fruits of enlightenment due to the extension of the opportunities of education to the masses of the population The modern newspaper is a product of city life it is no longer merely an organ of propaganda and opinion but a form of popular literature The journal of opinion was largely a business man s newspaper The so called independent press added to its public the so called artisan class The yellow press was created mainly to capture immigrants and women It was this increase of circulation that made the newspaper formerly a subsidized organ of the parties an independent business enterprise an envelope and carrier for advertising
