Market-driving Strategies Junko Abe, King's College London. Department of Management, 2011 There is no doubt that being market driven a passive approach that responds to current customer demands through adapting to their needs has been a key to success in practice Conversely market driving a proactive approach that attempts to provide customers with new values and shopping habits and change the market structure as well as the market behaviour plays an ever more important part in modern global business strategies Recently with the emergence of market driving firms the market driving strategy has attracted rising attention in academic literature However empirical research into the market driving study has been underdeveloped whilst there have been a series of contributions from conceptual perspectives in this area Consequently an exploratory case study of Starbucks Coffee Japan SO in the Japanese market was chosen for this study to generate insights into the nature of market driving from the perspective of the people implementing the business strategies The 15 year period of SCJ in the Japanese market will be divided into three distinct periods which discloses some steps of driving a market This study reveals that some market driving companies employ both market driving and market driven approaches at the same time depending on the general situation SCJ employed more market driving in the early stage entering the Japanese market then SCJ seemed to gradually become more market driven over time as the brand and their business culture attained a more hegemonic status in the market In this case the market driving approach constituted more of an effective market entry strategy In addition there can be a correlation between market driving firm s brand identity and how much they shape market behaviour The findings of this study then make both theoretical and practical contributions to the field of study Managerial implications of this study are discussed in the conclusion
