Newell, David Bloome, Alan Hirvela, 2015-06-05 Focused on the teaching and learning argumentative writing in grades 9-12 this important contribution to literacy education research and classroom practice offers a new perspective a set of principled practices and case studies of excellent teaching The case studies illustrate teaching and learning argumentative writing as the construction of knowledge and new understandings about experiences ideas and texts Six themes key to teaching argumentative writing as a thoughtful multi-leveled practice for deep learning and expression are presented teaching and learning argumentative writing as social practice teachers epistemological beliefs about argumentative writing variations in instructional chains instructional conversations in support of argumentative writing as deep learning and appreciation of multiple perspectives contextualized analysis of argumentative writing and the teaching and learning of argumentative writing and the construction of rationalities Teaching Argument Victoria D. Albon, 2015 This study examines how prepared middle school teachers are to teach argument in the classroom Specifically the review focuses on what teachers report that they know about how to teach argument in their classroom and how they are aligning argument instruction with Common Core State Standards This study also focuses on what approaches teachers use to instruct argument writing and what their instruction reveals about what they know about principled practice A review of the literature highlights the work of Stephen Toulmin and the alignment of his conception of argument patterns with Common Core State Standards It also focuses on studies in various disciplines that incorporate argument into the classroom The study relies on a mixed methods approach that examines data from surveys interviews and classroom observations The findings of this study reveal that while most teachers report that they understand the concepts of argument and recognize that argument holds a special place in the Common Core State Standards they lack the training to understand how to incorporate argument into their classroom Additionally teachers are not teaching argument in a way that aligns with Common Core State Standards nor do they teach argument in a way that aligns with practice supported by 50 years of research in the teaching of writing This study offers several recommendations that may inform future studies curriculum development and instructional practices in teaching argument in the middle school classroom

Argumentative Writing in a Second Language Alan R. Hirvela,Diane Belcher,2021-12-13

Argumentative Writing in a Second Language is a collection on teaching argumentative writing offering multiple vantage points drawn from the contributors own teaching and research experiences The value of learning how to compose argumentative texts cannot be overstated and yet very little attention has been allocated to the equally important topic of how argumentation is or can be taught in the L2 context. Thus this volume shifts attention to teachers and argumentative writing instruction especially within increasingly common multimodal and digital literacy settings. While doing so it provides a comprehensive wide ranging view of the L2 argumentative writing landscape within an instructional lens. Part I of the volume is topic oriented and focuses on explorations of important issues and perspectives while Part II features several chapters reporting classroom based studies of a variety of instructional approaches that expand our understanding of how argumentative writing can be taught. The book will be of value to pre service and in service teachers in varying instructional contexts as well as teacher educators and L2 writing scholars researchers.
