Undoing Manifest Destiny L. Daniel Hawk, 2026-02-03 Reckoning with the Colonial Past to Bring Justice to the Present As White settlers spread across North America they crafted and enacted an epic story of their God given dominion over the land over Indigenous nations and over the future Their narrative constructed a myth of innocence that justified a massive program of violence and dispossession by suppressing a darker history That history still reverberates today from settler America's relations with the Indigenous nations of the United States to ways the land has been commodified as property It's time for the whole truth to be told In Undoing Manifest Destiny L. Daniel Hawk exposes the belief systems and practices that settlers developed to justify the displacement destruction and cultural erasure of Indigenous peoples beginning in the early American colonial period and extending to the present day Writing as the descendant of White settlers and as a biblical scholar he challenges settler Christians to uncover what the settler narrative denies and to work toward addressing historic injustices In this book Hawk combines settler colonial theory historical analysis and Christian theology to examine how settler America sought to erase Indigenous presence from lands taken by the United States and its colonial predecessors offers a decolonizing perspective that challenges the church to acknowledge its complicity with the colonial project and to enter into dialogue directed toward setting things right and highlights contemporary manifestations of colonialism in US interactions with its Indigenous citizens demonstrating that past issues are still present and need to be addressed today Hawk asserts that Christians were complicit with programs of erasure and so Christians are called to confront and heal their residue today Joining historical research with theology and biblical scholarship Hawk helps us recognize the myths that shape the American imagination and to engage our faith for a better way forward This book is an invaluable resource for

Marquez,2024-02-06 Throughout the nineteenth and twentieth centuries teachers administrators and policymakers fashioned a system of industrial education that attempted to transform Black and Indigenous peoples and land

This form of teaching what Bayley J Marquez names plantation pedagogy was built on the claim that slavery and land dispossession are fundamentally educational. Plantation pedagogy and the formal institutions that encompassed it were thus integrally tied to enslavement, settlement, and their inherent violence toward land and people. Marquez investigates how proponents developed industrial education domestically and then spread the model abroad as part of US imperialism. A deeply thoughtful and arresting work, Plantation Pedagogy sits where Black and Native studies meet in order to understand our interconnected histories and theorize our collective futures. — Teaching for Historical Literacy Matthew T. Downey, Kelly A. Long, 2015-07-30

Teaching for Historical Literacy combines the elements of historical literacy into a coherent instructional framework for teachers. It identifies the role of historical literacy, analyzes its importance in the evolving educational landscape, and details the action steps necessary for teachers to implement its principles throughout a unit. These steps are drawn from the reflections of real teachers grounded in educational research and consistent with the Common Core State Standards. The instructional arc formed by authors Matthew T. Downey and Kelly A. Long takes teachers from start to finish, from managing the prior learning of students to developing their metacognition and creating synthesis at the end of a unit of study. It includes introducing topics by creating a conceptual overview, helping students collect and analyze evidence, and engaging students in multiple kinds of learning, including factual, procedural, conceptual, and metacognitive. This book is a must-have resource for teachers and students of teaching interested in improving their instructional skills, building historical literacy, and being at the forefront of the evolving field of history education. — The Reading Teacher's Book of Lists

This important book on Land Education offers critical analysis of the paths forward for education on Indigenous land. This analysis discusses the necessity of centring historical and current contexts of colonization in education on and in relation to land. In addition, contributors explore the intersections of environmentalism and Indigenous rights in part inspired by the realisation that the specifics of geography and community matter for how environmental education can be engaged. This edited volume suggests how place-based pedagogies can respond to issues of colonialism and Indigenous sovereignty. Through dynamic new empirical and conceptual studies, international contributors examine settler colonialism, Indigenous cosmologies, Indigenous land rights, and language as key aspects of Land Education. The book invites readers to rethink pedagogies of place from various Indigenous, postcolonial, and decolonizing perspectives. This book was originally published as a special issue of Environmental Education Research. The ESL/ELL Teacher's Book of Lists Jacqueline E. Kress, 2014-04-14.
