Bi-directionality in the Cognitive Sciences Marcus Callies, Wolfram R. Keller, Astrid Lohöfer, 2011 Cognitive science is the interdisciplinary study of the human mind As far as the exact relationship between the cognitive sciences and other fields is concerned however it appears that interdisciplinary exchange often remains unrealized possibly because of the uni-directional application of theories concepts and methods which impedes the productive transfer of knowledge in both directions In the course of the cognitive turn in the humanities and social sciences many disciplines have selectively borrowed ideas from core cognitive sciences like psychology and artificial intelligence The day to day practice of interdisciplinarity thus thrives on one-directional borrowings Focusing on cognitive approaches in linguistics and literary studies this volume explores bi-directionality a genuine transdisciplinary interchange in which both disciplines are borrowing and lending The contributions take different perspectives on bi-directionality some extend uni-directional borrowing practices and point to avenues and crossroads while others critically discuss obstacles challenges and limitations to bi-directional transfer

The Death of French

Culture Donald Morrison, Antoine Compagnon, 2010-08-09 For a long time France and its culture have been one and the same. However, of this past glory all that is left today is navel gazing nostalgia and timidity. Covering art, fashion, philosophy, literature, and cinema, Donald Morrison argues that French culture no longer has the kind of international standing it once did.

Corpus Linguistics, Context and Culture Viola Wiegand, Michaela Mahlberg, 2019-11-18 Corpus Linguistics: Context and Culture demonstrates the potential of corpus linguistic methods for investigating language patterns across a range of contexts. Organised in three sections, the chapters range from detailed case studies on lexicogrammatical patterns to fundamental discussions of meaning as part of the discourse contexts and cultures theme. The final part on learner contexts specifically emphasises the need for mixed method approaches and the consideration of pedagogical implications for real world contexts. Beyond its contribution to current debates in the field, this edited volume indicates new directions in cross disciplinary work.

Paul Auster's Writing Machine Evija Trofimova, 2014-08-28 Paul Auster is one of the most acclaimed figures in American literature. Known primarily as a novelist, Auster's films and various collaborations are now gaining more recognition. Evija Trofimova offers a radically different approach to the author's wider body of work, unpacking the fascinating web of relationships between his texts and presenting Auster's canon as a rhizomatic, factio-fictional network produced by a set of writing tools. Exploring Auster's literal and figurative use of these tools—the typewriter, the cigarette, the doppelgänger figure, the city—Evija Trofimova discovers Auster's writing machine, a device that works both as a means to write and as a construct that manifests the emblematic writer figure. This is a book about assembling texts and textual networks, the writing machines that produce them, and the ways such machines invest them with meaning. Embarking on a scholarly quest that takes her from between the lines of Auster's work to between the streets of his beloved New York and finally to the man himself, Paul Auster's Writing Machine becomes not just a critical investigation but a critical collaboration, raising important questions about the ultimate meaning of Auster's work and about the relationship between texts, their authors, their readers, and their critics.

Unpacking My Library Leah Price, 2011-11-29 As words and stories are increasingly disseminated through digital means, the significance of the book as object, whether pristine collectible or battered relic, is growing as well. Unpacking My Library: Writers and Their Books spotlights the personal libraries of thirteen favorite novelists who share their collections with readers. Stunning photographs provide full views of the libraries and close-ups of individual volumes, first editions, worn textbooks, pristine hardcovers, and childhood companions. In her introduction, Leah Price muses on the history and future of the bookshelf, asking what books can tell us about their owners and what readers can tell us about their collections. Supplementing the photographs are Price's interviews with each author, which probe the relation of writing to reading, collecting, and arranging books. Each writer provides a list of top ten favorite titles, offering unique personal histories along with suggestions for every bibliophile. Unpacking My Library: Writers and Their Books features the personal libraries of Alison Bechdel, Stephen Carter, Junot Díaz, Rebecca Goldstein, and Steven Pinker, Lev Grossman, and Sophie Gee.

Jonathan Lethem Claire Messud and James Wood Philip Pullman Gary Shteyngart and Edmund White The Seventh Age of Man Muriel Cassel-Piccot, Geneviève Lheureux, 2019-01-23 The Seventh Age of Man Issues Challenges and Paradoxes is a collection of academic essays on Old Age The contributors come from a wide range of fields of expertise which accounts for the originality of the book Depending on their respective disciplines the authors resort to various methodological approaches from sociological case studies to discourse analysis and from historical and political theories to media criticism but they often address similar questions when are people to be considered as old what does it mean to be old how do we deal with ageing and reach similar conclusions about the paradoxical representations of the elderly whether in Renaissance Europe or in contemporary China Although men and women are sometimes treated differently in most societies the older generation is alternately perceived as a threat and a burden or as financial and moral support If they are often criticized or ridiculed especially when they try to retain their youthful looks long after their prime the elderly also trigger a feeling of nostalgia as representatives of a past usually seen as more desirable than the present Their resilience and independence are regularly emphasized as well as their wisdom as a result of their long experience which helps them to contemplate their ends more serenely and which might turn them into models for their contemporaries Curious Lessons in the Museum Claire Robins, 2016-05-13 Amongst recent contemporary art and museological publications there have been relatively few which direct attention to the distinct contributions that twentieth and twenty first century artists have made to gallery and museum interpretation practices There are fewer still that recognise the pedagogic potential of interventionist artworks in galleries and museums This book fills that gap and demonstrates how artists have been making curious but none the less useful contributions to museum education and curation for some time Claire Robins investigates in depth the phenomenon of artists interventions in museums and examines their pedagogic implications She also brings to light and seeks to resolve many of the contradictions surrounding artists interventions where on the one hand contemporary artists have been accused of alienating audiences and on the other appear to have played a significant role in orchestrating positive developments to the way that learning is defined and configured in museums She examines the disruptive and parodic strategies that artists have employed and argues for that they can be understood as part of a move to re establish the museum as a discursive forum This valuable book will be essential reading for students and scholars of museum studies as well as art and cultural studies

Telling the Story of Translation Judith Woodsworth, 2017-08-10 Scholars have long highlighted the links between translating and re writing increasingly blurring the line between translations and so called original works Less emphasis has been placed on the work of writers who translate and the ways in which they conceptualize or even fictionalize the task of translation This book fills that gap and thus will be of interest to scholars in linguistics translation studies and literary studies Scrutinizing translation through a new lens Judith Woodsworth reveals the sometimes problematic relations between author and translator along with the evolution of the translator's voice and visibility The book investigates the uses and abuses of translation at the hands of George Bernard Shaw Gertrude Stein and Paul Auster prominent writers who bring into play assorted fictions as they tell their stories of translations Each case is interesting in itself because of the new material analysed and the conclusions reached Translation is seen not only as an exercise and fruitful starting point it is also a way of paying tribute repaying a debt and cementing a friendship Taken together the case studies point the way to a teleology of translation and raise the question what is translation for Shaw Stein and Auster adopt an authorial posture that distinguishes them from other translators They stretch the boundaries of the translation proper their words spilling over into the liminal space of the text in some cases they hijack the act of translation to serve their own ends Through their tales of loss counterfeit and hard labour they cast an occasionally bleak glance at what it means to be a translator Yet they also pay homage to translation and provide fresh insights that continue to manifest themselves in current works of literature By engaging with translation as a literary act in its own right these eminent writers confer greater prestige on what has traditionally been viewed as a subservient art
