

Phase 1

1. Mr. Khabibov had never been given the responsibility of taking the baby photographs during his earlier work shifts. I therefore instructed other participants rather in order of efficiency: first instructing those in the next generation, then those that I had instructed in other two shifts previously. Mr. Khabibov had been working for approximately 10 minutes before I had instructed him. He participated with others in the experiment himself and the other shift already in order to change things.
2. Mr. Khabibov had already gathered some eggs and was going through them. There were also the fresh eggs that were left in the refrigerator and were still under packing. Also, there were some eggs in the freezer, which had another way of a separate pack which were not yet in use, and the others were being used.
3. There was a record of the participants' work:
 - Mr. Khabibov had been working for approximately 10 minutes before I had instructed him.
 - Mr. Khabibov had been working for approximately 10 minutes before I had instructed him.
 - Mr. Khabibov had been working for approximately 10 minutes before I had instructed him.
4. Mr. Khabibov's supervisor described the work with eggs to the participants, which was, and was not, different. That was a change in the experiment, the first time.

Phase 2

1. If you were able to perform your work in 10, the results would have appeared in 10 minutes. If the participants had been able to perform the work in 10 minutes, the results would have appeared in 10 minutes. If the participants had been able to perform the work in 10 minutes, the results would have appeared in 10 minutes. If the participants had been able to perform the work in 10 minutes, the results would have appeared in 10 minutes.
2. The participants were not able to perform the work in 10 minutes.
3. The participants were not able to perform the work in 10 minutes.

Phase 3

1. I agree with Mr. Khabibov's supervisor that the results would have appeared in 10 minutes. I agree with Mr. Khabibov's supervisor that the results would have appeared in 10 minutes. I agree with Mr. Khabibov's supervisor that the results would have appeared in 10 minutes. I agree with Mr. Khabibov's supervisor that the results would have appeared in 10 minutes.
2. The 10, the participants would have appeared in 10 minutes.
3. The participants were not able to perform the work in 10 minutes.
4. The participants were not able to perform the work in 10 minutes.
