Nebrasketball Scott Winter, 2015-10-01 An episodic biography of Nebraska men's basketball coach Tim Miles and a chronicle of the memorable 2013-2014 season Antarctic Journal of the United States, 1989 The Globalization and Environment Reader Pete Newell, J. Timmons Roberts, 2016-06-13 The Globalization and Environment Reader features a collection of classic and cutting edge readings that explore whether and how globalization can be made compatible with sustainable development Offers a comprehensive collection of nearly 30 classic and cutting edge readings spanning a broad range of perspectives within this increasingly important field Addresses the question of whether economic globalization is the prime cause of the destruction of the global environment or if some forms of globalization could help to address global environmental problems Features carefully edited extracts selected both for their importance and their accessibility Covers a variety of topics such as the marketization of nature debates about managing and governing the relationship between globalization and the environment and discussions about whether or not globalization should be greened Systematically captures the breadth and diversity of the field without assuming prior knowledge Offers a timely and necessary insight into the future of our fragile planet in the 21st century Save the Hero: Ardalía's Story R. H. Krämer, 2016-12-05 I sit stuck against the wall as usual My body is physically tired from the double I just worked but my mind never stops It never sleeps Knock Knock Knock Ahri I know you can hear me Can you open the door please It is Mark I knew it would be He is the only person that ever comes to this door I don't want to leave him hanging outside He always comes out of his way to check on me Ahri I just want to know you're all right I feel the tears burning in my eyes I want to be better I want to be a better partner for Mark but I can't As a medic it is normal to lose sleep when you lose a patient or arrive to a scene too late But these aren't my problems Mark is such a great guy He deserves a normal partner It is quiet now I wonder if he has given up He should My phone's ambulance siren begins to sound and I know it is Mark He hasn't given up yet I don't silence the ringer I don't answer I can't The sound of the siren tenses me and I erect against the wall involuntarily My mouth extends above my throat and I take deep breaths into the air above me Beep beep He left a voice mail Poor guy He wants to save me He wants to fix me I am too far gone Ardalía Ahri or Daily is your hardworking paramedic with not so typical paramedic problems Although she spends most of her time saving lives hers is the one that needs to be saved Creating the College Man Daniel A. Clark, 2010-05-25 How did a college education become so vital to American notions of professional and personal advancement Reared on the ideal of the self-made man American men had long rejected the need for college But in the early twentieth century this ideal began to change as white men born in the U.S. faced a barrage of new challenges among them a stultifying bureaucracy and growing competition in the workplace from an influx of immigrants and women At this point a college education appealed to young men as an attractive avenue to success in a dawning corporate age Accessible at first almost exclusively to middle class white males college funneled these aspiring elites toward a more comfortable and certain future in a revamped construction of the American dream In Creating the College Man Daniel A Clark argues that the dominant mass media of the era popular magazines such as Cosmopolitan and the Saturday Evening Post played an integral role in shaping the immediate and long term goals of this select group of men In editorials articles fiction and advertising magazines depicted the college man as simultaneously cultured and scientific genteel and athletic polished and tough Such depictions underscored the college experience in powerful and attractive ways that neatly united the incongruous strains of American manhood and linked a college education to corporate success

Food Security, Agricultural Policies and Economic Growth Niek Koning, 2017-04-21 Using a political economic approach supplemented with insights from human ecology this volume analyzes the long term dynamics of food security and economic growth The book begins by discussing the nature of preindustrial food crises and the changes that have occurred since the 19th century with the ascent of technical science and the fossil fuel revolution It explains how these changes improved living standards but that the realization of this improvement was usually dependent on government support for smallholder modernization The author sets out how the evolution of food security in different regions has been influenced by farm policy choices and how these choices were shaped by local societal characteristics international relations and changing configurations in metropolitan countries Separate chapters are devoted to the interaction of this evolution with debates on food security and economic growth and with international economic policies The final chapters highlight the new challenges for global food security that will arise as traditional sources of biomass production and the more easily extractable reserves of fossil biomass become depleted or can no longer be used Overall the book emphasizes the inadequacy of current explanations with regard to these challenges It explores what is needed to ensure a sustainable future and calls for a rethinking of these issues a necessary reflection in today's unstable global political situation

Poetry David Constantine, 2013-10-03 Poetry offers a unique perspective on the current and future value of poetry in terms of the public good

Philosophy and Communication Bert Olivier, 2009 The essays assembled in this volume focus on philosophical questions regarding various aspects of communication They are predicated on the author's conviction that communication between human beings regardless of the many difficulties involved is something of sufficient importance to justify a patient philosophical exploration such as that embarked upon here Interwoven with philosophical considerations readers will find insights gained from psychoanalytical thinkers such as Jacques Lacan and Julia Kristeva The essays address a wide range of themes Sometimes they concern fundamental things such as the question of the very possibility of communication or the indispensable function of communication in sexual relations The communicational significance of a certain kind of architecture is scrutinized as well as that of images in our media saturated postmodern world together with the connection between the latter and the experience of identity today Other essays concentrate on communicational phenomena such as seduction and Kristeva's notion of revolt the difficulties surrounding communication in the age of Empire and the reappearance of communicational sophistry as a theme in contemporary cinema
