

A photograph of a person climbing a steep, snow-covered mountain peak. The climber is a small figure on the right side of the frame, near the top of the slope. The mountain's surface is covered in snow and has some tracks or crevasses visible. The sky is a pale, hazy blue.

In 1997, a Georgetown University physics professor set out to scale the highest peak of every continent and surf every ocean. Over the next 12 years, every escape from death brought him closer to life.
