Critical Security Studies in the Digital Age Joseph Downing, 2023-01-23 This book demonstrates that the disciplinary boundaries present within international relations approaches to security studies are redundant when examining social media and inter and multi disciplinary analysis is key A key result of the analysis undertaken is that when examining the social media sphere security scholars need to expect the unexpected This is because social media enables users to subvert contest and create security narratives with symbols and idioms of their choice which can take into account traditional security themes but also unexpected and under explored themes such as narratives from the local context of the users towns and cities and the symbolism of football clubs The book also explores the complex topography of social media when considering constructions of security The highly dynamic topography of social media is neither elite dominated and hierarchical as the Copenhagen School conceptualises security speak. However, neither is it completely flat and egalitarian as suggested by the vernacular security studies non elite approach. Rather, social media's topography is shifting and dynamic with individuals gaining influence in security debates in unpredictable ways. In examining social media, this book engages with the emancipatory burden of critical security studies. This book argues that it remains unfulfilled on social media and rather presents a thin notion of discursive emancipation where social media does provide the ability for previously excluded voices to participate in security debates even if this does not result in their direct emancipation from power hierarchies and structures offline.

Thinking the Unthinkable: A new imperative for leadership in the digital age Chris Langdon, Nik Gowing, 2018-06-08 Executive leadership faces new vulnerabilities. Many leaders privately concede them but few are willing to talk publicly about them. Unthinkable events since 2014 have revealed a new leadership fragility at the highest levels. And the pace of change in 2017 shows that the uncertainties are greater than ever. Is this the new normal? Thinking The Unthinkable is an investigation into why leaders have appeared more unable or unwilling than ever to anticipate the biggest issues of our time. In an era of wicked problems, why are current leadership behaviours and culture apparently not fit for purpose? What are the causes of so many failures in policy and strategic forecasting? Are they human frailties? Or are they systemic failures to embrace smartly new realities? Through hundreds of interviews and conversations, Nik Gowing and Chris Langdon have analysed the deep new challenges to the human capacity of leaders at the highest levels to accept, understand, embrace, then handle the extraordinary processes of change and disruption. This essential book draws on the candid responses. The findings are scary and disconcerting.

Shakespeare and Quotation Julie Maxwell, Kate Rumbold, 2018-04-26 Shakespeare is the most frequently quoted English author of all time. Quotations appear everywhere from the epigraphs of novels to the mottoes on coffee cups. But Shakespeare was also a frequent quoter himself of classical and contemporary literature, of the Bible, of snatches of popular songs and proverbs. This volume brings together an international team of scholars to trace the rich history of quotation from Shakespeare's own lifetime to the present day. Exploring a wide range of media including Romantic poetry, theatre, criticism, novels by Jane Austen, Thomas Hardy and Ian McEwan, political oratory, propaganda, advertising, drama, film and digital technology, the chapters draw fresh connections between Shakespeare's own practices of creative reworking and the quotation of his work in new and traditional forms Richly illustrated and featuring an Afterword by Margreta de Grazia the collection tells a new story of the making and remaking of Shakespeare's plays and poems
