culture Diane Robinson-Dunn, 2017-03-01 This book focuses on British efforts to suppress the traffic in female slaves destined for Egyptian harems during the late nineteenth century. It considers this campaign in relation to gender debates in England and examines the ways in which the assumptions and dominant imperialist discourses of these abolitionists were challenged by the newly established Muslim communities in England as well as by English people who converted to or were sympathetic with Islam. While previous scholars have treated antislavery activity in Egypt first and foremost as an extension of earlier efforts to abolish plantation slavery in the New World, this book considers it in terms of encounters with Islam during a period which it argues marked a new departure in Anglo-Muslim relations. This approach illuminates the role of Islam in the creation of English national identities within the global cultural system of the British Empire. This book would appeal to those with an interest in British imperial history, Islam, gender, feminism, and women's studies, slavery and race, the formation of national identities, global processes, Orientalism, and Middle Eastern studies. Edinburgh Companion to the Arab Novel in English Nouri Gana, 2015-04-17 Opening up the field of diasporic Anglo-Arab literature to critical debate, this companion spans from the first Arab novel in 1911 to the resurgence of the Anglo-Arabic novel in the last 20 years. There are chapters on authors such as Ameen Rihani, Ahdaf Ten Years' Captivity in the Mahdi's Camp 1882-1892 Josef Ohrwalder, F. R. Sir Wingate, 2021-04-25 Exploring the intersection of personal testimony and historical analysis, Ten Years' Captivity in the Mahdi's Camp 1882-1892 is an enlightening collection that captures a significant period of African colonial history. Through a blend of narrative accounts and analytical observations, this anthology documents the tumultuous experience of a decade spent within the Mahdist state, offering a rare glimpse into the era's political and socio-cultural dynamics. The anthology presents a tapestry of literary styles, from vivid eyewitness narratives to incisive scholarly interpretations, creating a comprehensive picture of captivity and survival in an African kingdom rife with revolution and change. Contributors such as Josef Ohrwalder and F. R. Sir Wingate lend their distinct voices to the anthology, shaping a multifaceted dialogue on themes of resilience, identity, and imperialism. Ohrwalder, with his firsthand experiences, complements Wingate's military and administrative insights, each enriching the text with their unique perspectives. The anthology situates itself within the backdrop of late 19th-century colonial encounters and Mahdism, intersecting with broader historical movements and expanding the reader's comprehension of this complex time of conflict and transformation. This collection offers readers a remarkable opportunity to immerse themselves in the diverse narratives and interpretations surrounding a pivotal historical epoch. Its rich array of styles and perspectives serves as a powerful educational tool, encouraging readers to engage deeply with both the microcosm of individual struggles and the macrocosm of global colonial dynamics. By bridging personal narratives with broader socio-political analysis, this anthology fosters a nuanced dialogue that is both intellectually compelling and profoundly illuminating, making it an indispensable read for anyone interested in the era's history. Ten Years' Captivity in the Mahdi's Camp, 1882-1892 Joseph Ohrwalder, 1893 Asiatic Journal and Monthly inextricable link with that nation's politics and practices. The set of concepts and practices defining cultural heritage were exported to and imposed over the colonized populations in North Africa and the Near East. The legacy of the colonial period has proven very significant in the domain of cultural heritage which has become a crucial cultural arena in many Arab states. As in the majorities of post colonial states in the Arab world, the inherited paradigm of cultural heritage has been subject to various forms of adaptation and re-elaboration that have made it a lively and complex space of negotiations between various actors. Thus in The Politics of Cultural Heritage in the Middle East, Irene Maffi and Rami Daher draw together expert scholars to unravel these complex processes that are involved in the definition, production and consumption of heritage and its material culture in the Middle East and the dynamics of the key actors involved. The variety of the cases analysed that cover the region from Morocco to Lebanon as well as the multiplicity of the actors concerned such as the state, post colonial or colonial international organizations, municipal councils, local communities, families and even exceptional personalities, highlights and explores the complex processes where very local and specific dynamics intertwine with transnational economic, political and cultural fluxes. In its examination of the workings of cultural heritage in the Middle East, this book is an important resource for students and scholars of Middle East Studies, Cultural History, History of Art and Architecture and for stakeholders involved in the field of cultural heritage.

Shouting in a Cage Sofia Fenner, 2023-07-11. Durable authoritarian rule often rests on the co-optation of challengers. The conventional story is straightforward: rulers entice opposition groups to sell out, offering them benefits if they set aside their antiauthoritarian aspirations and become part of the system. However, co-optation does not always neutralize former adversaries and even seemingly domesticated opponents can turn on their rulers. Co-optation does weaken opposition but it is not as simple, reliable or transactional as existing theories claim. Shouting in a Cage offers new ways to understand co-optation's power and its limits by examining two co-opted parties: the Wafd Party in Egypt and the Istiqlal Party in Morocco. Sofia Fenner argues that co-optation is less a corrupt bargain than a discursive contest, a clash of competing interpretations. Co-opted parties conjure up imagined futures in which their short-term choices will lead to the realization of their long-term democratic goals. Meanwhile, other actors point to the disconnect between these parties' antiauthoritarian aspirations and their participation in authoritarian systems. Fenner demonstrates that co-opted parties come to look hypocritical precisely because they refuse to give up their oppositional commitments. Their credibility sapped, they become unappealing allies and eventually political afterthoughts. However, such parties retain a surprising capacity for opposition rooted in the literal and metaphorical idea of party as family. Based on extensive archival research and ethnographic fieldwork in North Africa, Shouting in a Cage broadens our understanding of political behavior under authoritarianism
