The Blue Folio:

Officer Of The Blue Edward Duyker, 2014-03-28 French explorer Marion Dufresne was the man who reached Tasmania before the English. His expedition was the first to encounter the Tasmanian Aborigines and was a precursor of the great voyages of La Perouse, d'Entrecasteaux, Baudin and d'Urville. To Australian and New Zealand readers this elegant biography will be as Frank Horner writes a reminder or a revelation of the international context in which the English explorations of their homelands took place. The eighteenth century conflict between Britain and France is mirrored in Marion Dufresne's life. The parallels with Cook are striking. Like his English contemporary Marion was a brilliant mariner who proved his skills in merchant shipping before joining his nation's Royal Navy. Like Cook he was involved in scientific efforts to observe the Transit of Venus and sought the Southland in uncharted waters. Finally he too died tragically at the hands of Polynesians.

He reaches out to get his old law professor the fatherly George Comstock one of the most influential living framers of the new constitution to help save the president. But what Bill doesn't see is how backroom intrigues intertwined throughout the constitutional convention in 2037 and the new constitution's most perilous application in 2059 threaten his own life and the lives of those around him. Senate documents, 1880 House

Despite its success and its importance the book in its eight editions testifies to some extent to the failure of Marshall's original editorial project which should have consisted of multiple volumes and culminated with the publication of a final
