Methods and Remote Sensing in Archaeology Maurizio Forte, Stefano Campana, 2017-02-10 This volume debuts the new scope of Remote Sensing which was first defined as the analysis of data collected by sensors that were not in physical contact with the objects under investigation using cameras scanners and radar systems operating from spaceborne or airborne platforms A wider characterization is now possible Remote Sensing can be any non destructive approach to viewing the buried and nominally invisible evidence of past activity Spaceborne and airborne sensors now supplemented by laser scanning are united using ground based geophysical instruments and undersea remote sensing as well as other non invasive techniques such as surface collection or field walking survey Now any method that enables observation of evidence on or beneath the surface of the earth without impact on the surviving stratigraphy is legitimately within the realm of Remote Sensing The new interfaces and senses engaged in Remote Sensing appear throughout the book On a philosophical level this is about the landscapes and built environments that reveal history through place and time It is about new perspectives the views of history possible with Remote Sensing and fostered in part by immersive interactive 3D and 4D environments discussed in this volume These perspectives are both the result and the implementation of technological cultural and epistemological advances in record keeping interpretation and conceptualization Methodology presented here builds on the current ease and speed in collecting data sets on the scale of the object site locality and landscape As this volume shows many disciplines surrounding archaeology and related cultural studies are currently involved in Remote Sensing and its relevance will only increase as the methodology expands Official Gazette of the United States Patent and Trademark Office United States. Guadalcanal's Longest Fight Dave R. Holland,2025-10-30 Drawing from previously unknown and unused sources Holland paints a vivid picture of the desperate fights that broke the back of the Japanese forces ashore during that pivotal period of 1942 Holland s ground breaking account is vital to the understanding of the struggle to secure America s first major land victory in the Pacific Seth Paridon Historian Deputy Director Mississippi Armed Forces Museum The Matanikau battles proved to be the critical turning points in the land campaign for Guadalcanal the campaign s longest and bloodiest ground fight A five month conflict raged along the river and its basin The real importance of this area has long remained unrecognized yet the American and Japanese forces that fought over it knew that it was the key to the ultimate prize of Henderson Airfield In this mile long bloody tug of war from the river across to the hills and ravines were fought seven major battles and countless smaller skirmishes While countless books have been published on the Guadalcanal Campaign none have concentrated on the pivotal battles of the Matanikau basin Extensively researched this first in depth study of these important battles objectively showing all sides fills in this crucial missing piece of the history of the Guadalcanal campaign The well known Guadalcanal battlefield guide Dave Holland spent three years walking the battlefields researching and documenting what he found His unparalleled knowledge of the ground enables him to take the reader along with the men on the ground Using his investigative skills and military background he provides a fresh detailed and often completely new view of the land campaign establishing previously unknown facts and specifically illustrating their significance as the campaign s land turning points Circular ... California Agricultural Experiment Station,1918 Report University of California (System).
