

Surf Fishing Report

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

Barred surf perch are the most common catch these days off the beaches of Marin and Sonoma Counties. Redtails take a close second, and usually average a larger size. Stripers are a possibility that increases as anglers fish closer to the Golden Gate.

SAN FRANCISCO & BAY AREA

Rough waters make surfcasting difficult, but not impossible. There are always a few days in between storms and swells that are fishable. Surfcasters are finding a good mix of redbait and barred surf perch from Pigeon Point up to Ocean Beach in San Francisco. A few stripers are still feeding in the surfline, though most have moved up into freshwater at this point.

CENTRAL COAST

Big West swells are creating some horizontal structure on the wide beaches that ring Monterey Bay. Outgoing high tides seem to be producing the best. Barred surf perch are most common, and they are growing bigger as the winter season nears. We're seeing an increase of stripers from the beaches near Salinas and Pajaro rivermouths.

VENTURA & SANTA BARBARA

Stable water temperatures, strong tides and fair weather combined for some solid barred perch fishing along this stretch, reported Hook, Line and Sinker. Anglers reported some big kickers to 13 inches. The better quality fish are welcome this early in the season. Two anglers fished Jalama and caught and released four fish over 10-inches topped by a 13-inch pie tin. The catch was made on motor oil grubs and small Flash Minnows. Other catches were reported from Gaviota, Refugio and Goleta. The halibut bite consisted of mostly short fish 15- to 20-inches. Those willing to weed through several shorts may find a legal. A 32-inch white seabass, taken off Rincon on a swimbait, was catch of the week.

LOS ANGELES & MALIBU

Best bet along this stretch has been a scratch bite on the shallow Malibu reefs, according to Wylie's. Anglers report mixed bag catches of shallow water rockfish, small barred perch, yellowfin croaker, sand bass, calico bass and sheephead. Fresh market shrimp has been a best bait. The bite has not been wide open but if you put in some time you will get a shot at a nice fish. The halibut bite has been slow with mostly shorts reported. Best stretch has been near the old Charthouse. The better barred perch action has been below County Line where anglers are posting limits or near limits of fish to 10- inches. Just Fishing reported mostly small barred perch along south bay beaches. The halibut bite has been slow.

ORANGE COUNTY

Despite water temps to 64 degrees, the beach bite continued slow all along this stretch reported Ketcham and Hogan tackle shops. Most anglers could only report scratch fishing for small barred perch. Gulp! Sandworms and grubs are working on the diminutive fish. A handful of short halibut were reported but bites are few and far between. The better shot at a legal halibut was inside LA Harbor, Alamitos Bay and Huntington Harbor. Here, there are some fish well into the 30-inch class. Most anglers putting in the time will get a shot. A King Salmon was reported to be caught and released at the Bolsa Chica Inlet. The fish was estimated at 25-pounds.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY

A few halibut catches off south Carlsbad spiced up an otherwise slow beach report, according to Pacific Coast. The handful of short fish to go with a just legal fish was the best report from the beach in weeks. The beach bite has been scratch fishing for small barred perch. Water temps, tides and weather should combine for better fishing. More fair weather may boost the bite. The fish were located with Flash Minnows. The halibut bite in the lagoons, bays and harbors slowed but there were still some catches of 30-inch class halibut in the bait aggregations found in the back bays. Live smelt or sardines have been the best baits. Water temps are hovering around 64 degrees. Another King Salmon was caught and released in the San Diego River on a chatter bait.
