Cones, 2025-08-01 The connection between liturgy and justice has long been assumed Faithful celebration of Eucharist would lead to just sharing of the fruit of the earth and the work of human hands Baptizing persons of every people and nation would yield societies in which each person treats another as a treasured image of God Regular faithful engagement with scripture would shape followers of Jesus into living words within the Word Yet centuries of Christian practice and decades of reflection on the connection between liturgy and justice continue to produce broken human relationships shaped by colonisation disparities based on colour and culture and nature broken by a climate crisis worked by human hands To Nevertheless essays in this collection seek to engage the unresolved tension between the world in which humanity lives and the one proposed in Christian common prayer Gerard Moore asks if the law of prayer that guides assemblies is tainted by an imperial shape that impairs its witness Anita Monro laments a lack of honesty in so many Christian gatherings where confession and lament are absent not least when assemblies gather on stolen land Stephen Burns responds to their prompts by proposing patterns that might steer common prayer toward more authentic kingdom scenes that signal God's dominion Annie Brophy applies such wisdom to her own Uniting Church in Australia asking whether its resources for prayer measure up to that church's stated commitment to justice in the matter of gender and reconciliation with Australia's First Peoples Jason McFarland and Angela McCarthy report on ecumenical efforts underway to right the relationship between human bodies at prayer and the continuous praise of the rest of creation Might an ecumenical Feast of Creation be a step in that direction Like so many questions posed by contributors to this volume the path to joining liturgy and justice walking hand in hand remains unclear

Faith in the Town Hannah Barker, Carys Brown, Kate Gibson, Jeremy Gregory, 2025-02-28 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence It is free to read on the Oxford Academic platform and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations Across eighteenth and early nineteenth century northern England religious faith continued to affect the lives of men women and children in profound ways Rather than abandoning their faith in the face of increasing urbanisation and industrialisation as is often assumed was the case town dwellers across the social and denominational spectrum commonly understood their relationships with their families households and the world within a framework of religious duty and virtue For urban middling and labouring individuals religious practice and the influence of faith was not limited to time spent in church or chapel but extended into all areas of activity and experience the workplace the streets and other public spaces and the home The importance of faith in the lived experience of town dwellers was not something that existed in spite of change faith was promoted by the new conditions of urban life Faith in the Town explores key decades of this transformational period encompassing almost a century of urban development between 1740 and 1830 By placing lay religious belief centre stage this book demonstrates that many of the developments associated with modernity specifically industrialisation urbanisation population growth and Enlightenment thinking were not inimical to faith Instead religious belief and lay piety was a crucial element in the formation of urban economy society and culture during the long eighteenth century meaning that northern towns were not only places where faith could both be nourished and flourish but that these urban centres were themselves shaped by faith

Memories of the Way It Was K.L. Smith, 2025-10-04 Memories of the Way It Was is a random collection of my thoughts and memories of my life As an elderly adult I have time to sit for hours and reminisce and remember moments from my past I have time to analyze the past moments of my life and how these past moments have helped shape me into the person that I am In the pages of this book I have written stories about friends and relatives from my past and present I have written a partial accounting of my family s history according to how it was told to me and from my personal observations and experiences I was there in the flesh to live these moments and I am left with precious memories All my life I have had vivid dreams that seemed real Strange and unusual things happen in my dreams Strange and unusual things happen in my life I was raised by an extremely superstitious mother who had prophetic dreams My head and heart are filled with memories of so many things in life that my parents told me I have so many memories of my siblings and the things I learned from them The days that I lived are gone forever The way things were will never be that way again These days will only be remembered by those who lived them or from the pages of the books written about those moments from the past Those days are gone forever Soon these memories will die with those who lived them That is why I have written twelve books full of the way life was in the 1940s up until the present day My mother used to tell me and my siblings stories of her past I wanted my children and grandchildren to know her stories as well as my own stories The next generation will have stories of their own to tell but life as my parents lived it and as I lived it will never be again When I explore my memories of the way things were I believe we were once better people than we are today As I get older I find that a lot of things no longer matter It does not matter to me who my relatives were or where they came from All that matters is that I was born and had the privilege of living the four seasons of my life in God s beautiful world Ultimately we are all God s children and brothers and sisters in Christ We are all connected through God My book is written in no particular order Each chapter is a stand alone story that can be read randomly just as it is written Each chapter is a piece of my life and heart I pray that my stories and ramblings will stoke memories and bring pleasure to anyone who reads them I am thankful for the people places and the events that make up the days of my life I am incredibly grateful for the life that God has allowed me to live

ETINED - Volume 9 - Open school data in European education systems Muriel Poisson,Elira Jorgoni,2025-09-01 How can open school data transform education in Europe Open school data is an important part of the broader move towards more open government across Europe and has the potential to improve educational outcomes for learners However while some countries have advanced frameworks supported by strong technologies others are still in the early stages of development with limited access to granular data This report explores the implementation of open school data across states parties to the European Cultural Convention represented in the Council of Europe s Steering Committee for Education Developed by the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization s International Institute for Educational Planning in conjunction with the Council of Europe it draws from a comprehensive desk review an online survey sent to all states parties and in depth interviews with selected countries on their open school data practices Key findings reveal several challenges inconsistent data standards outdated technological infrastructure limited capacities and awareness and resistance due to concerns over scrutiny equity and privacy Yet countries have developed innovative approaches Open by default policies use of artificial intelligence application programming interface and data visualisation tools and data literacy campaigns showcase the potential of open school data to enhance transparency and data driven decision making in education Recommendations focus on improving the quality of data promoting public engagement fostering peer learning and international collaboration and developing an open school data maturity index all actions aimed at stronger open governance and improved learning across European education systems
